2nd Draft Registration Set for July 1

NEW ORDER TO AFFECT NEARLY 400 IN COUNTY

Young Men Becoming 21 Since First Registration to Sign For Induction.

PROGRAM ARRANGED

Three Draft Boards Here To Conduct Enrollment; Age Changes Considered.

Young men who have become 21 years of age since last Oct. 16 will be asked to register for military service July 1, it was decided today by army and selective service officials who are taking steps to induct younger men into the army.

The second registration of prospective selectees is expected to affect nearly 400 Richland countians who were too young to register at the first nation-wide registration in October.

Registration, which will be handled at the offices of the county's three selective service boards, is expected to be a simple job as compared to the first registration in which more than 9,300 Richland countians were listed for prospective military training.

The July 1 date was tentatively agreed upon to give the new group of prospective trainees time to learn whether they are likely to be called for service this fall so they can arrange their school or employment plans, an Associated Press dispatch said.

It was expected, however, that a large part of the second group of registrants would be called for training a few months after they are classified as available.

Army officials indicated that they are as yet undecided on the precedure which will be used in incorporating the new group of draft numbers in the existing lists so the younger men will be called first.

It was learned in Washington that war department officials are considering changing the age requirements of selectees, possibly calling for men under 30. The law now permits the induction of men from 21 to 36.

In Richland county, selective service boards were mailing questionnaires at a speedier rate today in order to have all registrants classified for service within a few weeks. The boards are past the 2,000 mark on the lists. Board 1, which has the largest district in the county, has more than 3,000 registrants.

BLAMES SOLDIER

Congressman Says He Was Hit By Army Man on Train.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — (INS) — Congressman Luther Patrick, (D., Ala.) declared today that while on a train near Lynchburg, Va., last Thursday he was assaulted and severely beaten by a soldier en route to Fort McClellan, Ala.

Patrick said the soldier, who was annoying a woman passenger, struck him three severe blows in the face, one of which will cause permanent injury. He was attended by Dr. Donovan C. Brown of New Orleans, a passenger on the train.

The soldier, whom Patrick was unable to identify, was finally subdued by other passengers and an army sergeant, the representative reported.

Congressional Leaders Say Roosevelt Will Announce U. S. Warship Convoys to Britain Within Fortnight

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
(INS Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON — Many congressional leaders are forecasting today that President Roosevelt will announce within another fortnight that American warships will "convoy" British merchantmen across the Atlantic, to assure safe delivery of war materials to embattled England.

Their philosophy, expressed openly in cloakroom conversations, is that Mr. Roosevelt will "respond to the growing demand for American armed convoys," by agreeing to use U. S. naval vessels to guard his promised "bridge of ships" to Britain.

A few capitol leaders, however, insist the president will refrain from use of "armed convoys" because of his declarations that "convoys mean war" and his frequent pledges to the American people to keep the United States out of war. Those who express this philosophy are in the minority.

The stage meanwhile, is being set for use of American warships to escort British ships clear across the Atlantic. Some administration leaders frankly say they intend to whip up public sentiment for "convoys" to such a degree that Mr. Roosevelt will have to agree whether or not he favors their use.

RETAIN SAME SCHOOL HEADS

All Richland County Rural and Village Districts Keep Superintendents.

All of Richland county's rural and village high schools will be headed by the same superintendents next year who are completing the 1940-41 school term, it was revealed today.

Four of the nine superintendents have at least one more year to go under previous contracts, while five have received renewal contracts, County Superintendent Boyd Robinson said.

Except for Supt. D. D. Rummel at Bellville, all of the county school heads have held their present posts for more than a year. Rummell was employed last month to succeed W. B. Edgerley who resigned to take a state job. Rummel's new contract is for two years.

Also re-employed this year were

FUND CAMPAIGN GOES OVER TOP, HITS $67,610

$64,375 Goal Oversubscribed By $3,235 With More Pledge Cards To Be Received.

Mansfield's Community Fund campaign rolled over the finish line last night oversubscribed by $3,235.96 with more still to come.

Fund officials reported this morning that $67,610.96 has been raised by more than 300 workers who showered Fund headquarters with last-minute pledges last night to reach and surpass the 1941 goal of $64,375.

At noon yesterday, Fund workers had $1,237 to raise. It was the last day of the drive but before the 9 p. m. deadline the goal-topping figures showed they had set an 11-year record for Fund campaigns.

Complete returns will not be available for two weeks, according to Jane Williams, Fund executive secretary, since numerous prospects are out of the city and their pledge cards will not be filled out until their return.

Rev. D. N. Roller, campaign chairman, expressed himself "highly delighted with the success of the drive." He attributed "credit to the excellent organization set up in the fund office and the untiring work of Jane Williams and her workers in perfecting that set-up."

He also praised the "splendid co-operation of majors and their workers who did a splendid piece of work in a very short time."

"The success of the campaign shows that Mansfield is keenly interested in the welfare of our own community."

FAVORS BILL

Committee Urges Legislation For 58 More Ships.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The house naval committee recommended legislation today to authorize the navy to acquire 58 additional fleet auxiliary vessels at a cost of approximately $350,000,000.

The bill represented an increase of 33 ships beyond what the navy requested when the legislation was introduced early in March.

Rear Admiral Samuel M. Robinson, chief of the bureau of ships, testified he had been instructed by Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, to ask that the measure be amended to authorize acquisition of 550,000 tons of additional auxiliaries instead of the 200,000 tons originally requested. Robinson said rapid developments which could not be foreseen necessitated the increase.

Probe Report Dynamite Was Planted on Roosevelt Estate

(By Associated Press)

RHINEBECK, N. Y. — Capt. John Gaffney of the state police said his men and secret service agents were investigating a report that two men had planted dynamite on President Roosevelt's Hyde Park, N. Y., estate with the intention of "setting it off if the United States went to war." Gaffney said he believed "there was nothing to the story."

Later, after an investigation which included a check of the estate grounds, James Maloney, head of the secret service in the New York district, advised his office that "the whole thing is silly" and that no arrests would be made.

Gaffney said the report originated with a workman on the estate.

"But we don't believe it," Gaffney said.

Nevertheless, he added, James Maloney, head of the secret service in the New York district, was accompanying the workman about the estate in a checkup of his statements.

State police said the workman had told them that two men, about 35 and speaking broken English, had disclosed their plot to him when he picked them up in his car after their own car had broken down.

Trooper John Hogan said state police were called to investigate at 7:45 a. m. (EST) today and immediately dispatched four troopers to the estate.

HUNDREDS OF TELEPHONES HIT

Water Seeping Into Cable Puts More Phones Out of Order; More Threatened.

Telephone service in hundreds of Mansfield homes and offices of the industrial section was being cut gradually today as water seeping into one of the Mansfield Telephone company's cables on North Main street continued to ground the lines.

C. L. Lisle, company maintenance superintendent, said today that a damaged cable at Fifth and North Main streets was responsible for the difficulty. Water from Tuesday night's storm soaked the cable which contains 600 lines controlling approximately 1,800 phones.

Lisle said that during the night about a hundred additional phones were put out of commission. About 600 were out of order yesterday.

Telephone company workers located the leak about ten feet from a storm sewer manhole. Lisle

BUCYRUS — Discovery of two badly decomposed human embryos on a farm three miles southwest of Galion, was announced today by Crawford county deputy sheriffs.

They were found wrapped in sheets of a Cleveland and Marion newspaper placed in a cardboard box. Deputies said they believed the carton was placed on the farm only recently.

RAIN, COOLER

Showers Bring Mercury Drop, More Forecast For Tonight.

Mansfielders welcomed more much-needed rain last night but shivered slightly today in the cool breeze which accompanied it.

The weather man promised partly cloudy and cooler weather for tonight and tomorrow with a scattering of showers.

The city got its first shower of the day shortly after 11 a. m. Temperatures dropped from a maximum of 76 degrees to a minimum of 44. Average position for the mercury during the day was at 60 degrees, three higher than the 16-year average.

By noon today, the thermometer had climbed to only 56 degrees as cloudy skies blanketed the city.

The Mansfield area's rainfall deficiency since the beginning of the year has been estimated at more than six inches. Ohio State university soil experts have warned of the possibility of a drought year because of the lowness of reserve moisture in the soil.

TAKES UP BILL TO REQUISITION FOREIGN SHIPS

National Dispute on All-Out Use of Navy In Atlantic Continued By Willkie.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The senate commerce committee today began consideration of the administration's bill to requisition idle foreign shipping preliminary to bitter congressional debate whether we should risk war to convoy munitions to Great Britain.

Agitated national dispute set off by Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson's summons for all-out use of the navy to protect the British life-line continued today with an appeal by Wendell L. Willkie for "less talk and more action"—whether or not it means convoys, and a warning by Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox that we live in "fearful danger."

"All of the great resources of this nation," including man-power, are now committed "to one supreme purpose—to see that British seapower shall not be destroyed," Knox said in an address last night.

Anti-interventionists replied that, with President Roosevelt's knowledge, the nation was being stampeded down the road to war by a "verbal blitzkrieg of deception."

Mr. Roosevelt is expected formally to enter the controversy next week—May 14—when he delivers an address here before the Pan American Union. It probably will be broadcast worldwide and may reveal whether his cabinet advisers have won him further toward an outright convoy policy.

The ship bill passed the house yesterday by a vote of 266 to 120. Anti-interventionists contemplate amendments in the senate which would raise the convoy question and prevent the transfer of seized or purchased vessels to the British munitions service. But they are without hope of checking the administration by such tactics be-

COLUMBUS — (UP) — Rep. James H. McElhaney, (R-Scioto), introduced a resolution yesterday calling for house opposition to "sixth columnists" who are "providing war materials to potential enemies who may in the near future use them to kill American boys."

The resolution condemned shipments of war materials "in vast quantities by American and British companies to Japan, Russia and transported to Germany."

Night Defense Takes Big Toll Over Liverpool

German Airmen Plunge to Death During Moonlight Fights Over Channel, Other Areas; British Raid Northeastern Germany.

BULLETIN

A NORTHEAST TOWN, ENGLAND — (AP) — A heavy casualty toll is feared here as a result of a three-hour pounding by German bombers last night. A high percentage of the bombs were of the heaviest kind and there was the customary proportion of incendiaries. A large part of the shopping center was destroyed.

(By International News Service)

LONDON — Aided by American-built Douglas "Havoc" fighters and with King George VI personally keeping tab on the operations, the Royal Air Force may have destroyed as many as 45 or 46 German bombers last night—the greatest number for any night of the war, the house of commons was told today.

An official air ministry statement said that 22 German planes were downed by Havoc and Beau fighters and another brought down by anti-aircraft.

But in the house this afternoon Captain Harold Balfour, undersecretary for air, announced amid cheers:

"Many German planes were damaged. When it is confirmed they crashed—the total brought down last night may be double the present figures."

King George spent several hours in a night fighter station, cheering RAF pilots as they took off and returned.

The death-dealing battle raged in the moonlight as the Germans once more hammered Liverpool and other far-flung British sectors, spreading death and damage despite the savage British air attacks.

Nearly all the Nazi airmen shot from the darkened skies perished as their planes plunged to earth.

As the Nazi night assaults drew to a close, one formation of British night-fighters sped across the channel and patrolled the German-occupied French bases, waiting for the German bombers to return.

Lurking high in the sky the British fliers spied their prey and swooped, destroying three Nazi planes and seriously damaging others, it was claimed.

While these battles were in progress British bombers hammered northwestern Germany, the Nazi-occupied French port of Brest and other objectives in occupied territory. At Brest direct hits were claimed on the German battle cruisers Scharnhorst and Gneisenau.

This afternoon last-minute reports revealed considerable damage to industrial buildings, homes, schools and churches as a result of last night's German raids. In various towns rescue workers were still laboring to extricate civilians trapped by debris.

A hospital in a western England town suffered a direct bomb hit and a number of blocks were destroyed, killing 11 women, while a

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. — Mrs. Jean Wells was found shot to death today in the desert near here, her 13-month-old baby clinging to her body.

A farmer discovered the body when he was attracted to the scene by the screams of Miss Rose Destree, 17, who had been shot twice herself and was critically wounded.

Undersheriff James W. Stocker said Miss Destree told him that Albert Wells, a brother-in-law of Mrs. Wells, shot both women.

Miss Destree had been visiting Mrs. Wells at her San Bernardino home. About dinner time last night, she said, Wells came to the house and asked Mrs. Wells to take him to Cajon Pass "so he could get a job on a chicken ranch."

Miss Destree and the baby, accompanied Wells and his sister-in-law. About half way to the pass, the girl said Wells ordered Mrs. Wells to halt the car. He then ICC Members Blame Sabotage In Wreck of Passenger Train.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The interstate commerce commission said today "malicious tampering with the track" caused the derailment of a Pittsburgh-Cleveland passenger train of the Pennsylvania railroad near Baden, Pa., March 16. Five persons, including two passengers, were killed, and 121 others injured.

The commission's finding is in accordance with the railroad's report. The railroad said the derailment was "definitely caused by sabotage."

The train was traveling at an estimated speed of 60 to 70 miles an hour when it was derailed. It plunged into the Ohio river during a blinding snow storm.

Soldiers Hunt for Missing Child In Kentucky Woods

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — (AP) — Six hundred Bowman field air corps soldiers were roused from slumber early today and ordered to search the wooded hills and ravines of Locust Grove, ten miles south of here, for a four-year-old Louisville boy missing since noon yesterday.

The troops were requested by County Police Chief Frank Cassell. Col. George P. Johnson, Bowman field chief executive officer, agreed to render assistance.

The frail, blond child, James Thomas Proctor, son of an army artilleryman, disappeared as he was playing along a lonely trail.

The lad's mother, Mrs. Alice Proctor, told Cassell she warned the boy not to precede her too far as they were on their way home from a visit with the child's aunt, Mrs. Charles Daunhauer.

The boy's father, William Proctor, is with the 138th field artillery stationed at Camp Shelby, Miss.

Richland Farmers Vote May 31 On U. S. Limit on Wheat Crops

Richland county AAA officials were mapping plans today for a special farm election Saturday, May 31, when county farmers will decide whether the federal government shall limit the amount of wheat they can sell this year.

The election date, tentatively set several weeks ago, has been approved by the department of agriculture for the last Saturday in May, County AAA Chairman Guy Taylor said.

The chairman said a series of township meetings will be scheduled before the election to inform farmers of the election procedure. It had not been decided today where farmers will cast their votes.

It will require a two-thirds vote to approve the marketing quota on wheat to permit the government to limit the amount of grain farmers can sell.

All farmers who are subject to the quota, or those who produce wheat, will be eligible to vote. The quota will not be applicable, however, to farms which produce less than 200 bushels of wheat.

The quotas, if voted, would be effective during the marketing year beginning July 1, but they would also apply to wheat harvested in 1941 and marketed before July 1.

Government farm officials pointed out that a huge surplus of wheat will make the restrictions necessary to prevent flooding of the market and resulting lower prices.

APPLESEED BOY SCOUT DISTRICT TOPS 42 OTHERS

Leads Ohio-West Virginia District In Enrollment, Survey Shows.

The Johnny Appleseed Boy Scout area of which Mansfield and Richland county are a part, has more scouts per 100 boys of 12 years old or older than any of the other 42 councils in the Ohio-West Virginia Boy Scout district, Floyd Dent, area executive, was advised here today.

The area's standing is shown in a recent survey completed by regional scout headquarters at Cincinnati.

The Appleseed area, which is composed of Richland, Ashland, and parts of Crawford counties, has a membership of approximately 1,332 scouts, Dent said.

In addition to ranking first in the district in the number of scouts, the Appleseed area is also first in the number of units to which Scouts may belong. There are 56 units in the area.

According to the Regional headquarter's report the Appleseed area also ranked eighth in the recruiting index. The recruiting index is a measure of the number of Boy Scouts who join scout organizations out of each 100 eligible boys.

The area also ranked high in the number of scouts who had had camping experience, Dent said. The Hamilton, O., district and the Johnny Appleseed area tied for first, with a record of 97 per cent of the scouts having had some kind of over night camping activity, Dent explained.

DEFENSE SPURS EARLY OPENING OF COULEE DAM

Columbia River Structure Goes Into Operation Ahead of Schedule.

WASHINGTON— (INS)—Grand Coulee Dam, largest manmade structure on earth, located on the Columbia river, has already buckled down to work two years ahead of schedule because of national defense needs.

The huge dam has begun producing electrical power for the Pacific Northwest, and in 20 years will convert 1,200,000 acres of desert and dry-farming land into an oasis about the size of Delaware, Department of the Interior authorities said.

The dam opened with two 10,000 kilowatt generators in place. Slated to be installed in the structure are 18 giant generators of 108,000 kilowatts each, which will make Grand Coulee the largest single source of electrical energy in the world, producing almost one-twelfth of the total electrical power developed in the United States today.

Over 10,500,000 cubic yards of concrete make up the framework of the dam. This mammoth concrete barrier, nearly two and one-half times higher than Niagara Falls, has swelled the Columbia river level to 345 feet, and has created a vast lake stretching 151 miles upstream to the Canadian border. The great reservoir will provide many amusement facilities for boating, camping and fishing.

More than 300,000 people will obtain homes and livelihoods in agriculture, commerce and industry when the region irrigated by the dam is opened up, Interior officials estimated.

Most of the land in the area is either desert or dry-farm, and is owned by large farm holders. These will be broken up into small family size farms.

Long Struggle to Save Leg From Amputation Fails

CANTON, O.—(INS)—A long 21-year struggle came to an unsuccessful climax when doctors amputated Herman G. Smith's right leg at the hip.

While employed in a steel mill, 21 years ago, a load dropped from a crane and fell on Smith's leg. Infection set in and during the following years Smith underwent 33 operations trying to save his limb.

His fight was almost a success but he slipped in his home last fall and fell on his leg, aggravating the delicate condition.

During one of his long stays in the hospital, Smith formed the "Behind the Eight Ball Club" which now has members throughout the world.

At one time Smith was the trainer for the Canton Bulldog professional football team.

STOCKS MOVE WARILY DURING DAY'S TRADING

Metal, Merchandising Issues Get Support, Rails Lag on New York Market.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Stocks moved warily over a narrowly irregular route in today's market.

Metal and merchandising issues were given a little support but motors and rails were neglected.

Given a mild lift in early dealings were International Nickel, Sears Roebuck, Bethlehem Steel and Caterpillar tractors.

Backward were General Motors, Chrysler, U. S. Steel and Philip Morris.

Commodities were hesitant.

A fairly good business news budget tended to limit selling and attract bids here and there, brokers said, but an important speculative handicap was seen in rising fears the United States was approaching actual participation in the European conflict. The tax problem also remained as a bearish item for boardrooms.

THEATERS

College Cavalcade.

Termed a cavalcade of American life, "Cheers For Miss Bishop," film drama featuring Martha Scott and William Gargan at the Ohio, gave the research staff plenty of work as historical accuracy was sought in reproducing interiors and exteriors of a midwestern college town over a span of 60 years. Aging of the characters also required make-up skill as Martha Scot, the heroine grows old along with William Gargan, Sidney Blackmer and Donald Douglas, the men in her three-cornered romance. Tay Garnett directed the picture which was adapted from the Bess Streeter Aldrich's novel.

Stage Revue.

The Madison stage continues to be enlivened with "Red Hot and Lovely." Harry Clark's production featuring an array of stage, screen and radio talent. On the program are the Perry Twins, Star and Lee, radio entertainers, the Three Ross Sisters, acrobats, Nixon and Sans, funmakers, 12 Ziegfeld girls and Milt Henkin and his orchestra. "Flight From Destiny," the film feature, presents Thomas Mitchell and Geraldine Fitzgerald.

Taken For Ride.

Gangsters and underworld films are taken for a laugh-provoking ride in "Tall, Dark and Handsome," opening Friday at the Ritz. Cesar Romero plays the killer who doesn't kill but poses as a "father" in order to induce, Virginia Gilmore, a pretty department store nursemaid to accept a position in his palatial home as a governess for his "son." Hilarity hits a high when he orders Milton Berle to find a "son," and Charlotte Greenwood to act as housekeeper. The three Mesquiteers in "Lone Star Raiders," is the co-feature.

Adventure Film.

"Escape to Glory," Pat O'Brien's starring vehicle opening Thursday at the Park is a thrilling story of men and women racing disaster on board ship and how they spend their last few hours. O'Brien is cast as a soldier of fortune; Constance Bennett as a girl who takes her sables where she finds them; John Halliday as a phoney crusader, Melville Cooper and Alan Baxter are also in the cast. Charles Starrett in "The Durango Kid," story of the old west, is the second attraction.

Backstage Life.

"Footlight Fever," a comedy of backstage life opening at the Majestic Friday has Alan Mowbray and Donald MacBride in the roles of stage producers with ambition but no money. Their first "angel" provides them with more complications than anything else and finally elopes with the leading lady. Elyse Knox, Lee Bonnell and Elizabeth Risdon are in the cast also Bernard Gorcey of the "Dead End Kids." "Boss of Bullion City," with Johnny Mack Brown shares the bill.

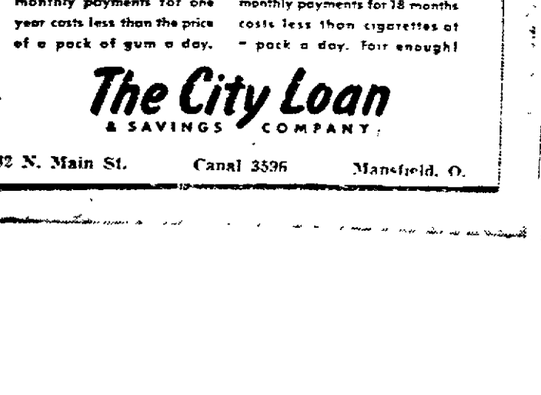
At Last! We'll Have More Money for Ourselves



. . . how to make your pay check go farther

A YOUNG SALESMAN with a good job and a bright future was anxious to get ahead. His income was $165 a month . . . his outgo, $75 for bills and debts alone.

We made him a cash loan to square up everything and cut his payments to $18 a month. He found it easy to pay off his loan. Now he says he'll be back again soon to finance a "big business deal that's on the fire."

"We like to see you make your credit work for your profit and advantage."
Joe C. Hartline

LOANS $10 TO $1000

HOW MUCH IS READY MONEY WORTH?
$100 repayable in regular monthly payments for one year costs less than the price of a pack of gum a day.
$300 repayable in regular monthly payments for 18 months costs less than cigarettes at a pack a day. Fair enough!

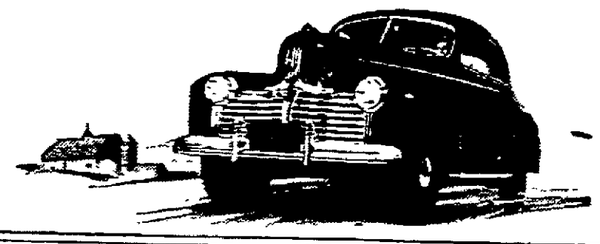
Pontiac
THE FINE CAR WITH THE LOW PRICE



WE'VE OFTEN SAID that Pontiac owners are our best salesmen. Records show that literally thousands of Pontiac sales result from the enthusiastic recommendations of this loyal family of owners. They're proud of their Pontiacs, and quick to tell their friends the good news.

These people know from experience that Pontiac is the fine car with the low price. Far from being an expensive car, it is actually priced just a few dollars above the lowest-priced three. They know it costs no more to own and operate a Pontiac than their former cars. In fact, fewer repair bills, combined with longer life, assure the minimum driving costs.

Finally, our owners have found that in the long run they actually pay no more for a Pontiac—they simply invest a little more at the time of purchase. For Pontiac's long life and famous dependability bring back those few extra dollars in higher value at trade-in time!

Is it any wonder, then, that Pontiac owners are our best salesmen? That's why we urge you to see your nearest Pontiac owner—and then you'll want to see your nearest Pontiac dealer!

CHAPTER XIII

She attempted to talk to him as they circled the room on the heady beat of a waltz, but her glance repeatedly wavered around his shoulder to Hal and Lydia, sitting at an obscure table, apparently wholly wrapped up in each other. A weight seemed tied to her tongue and she told herself she wished she'd never been born.

"I've been trying to get up nerve enough to ask you for a date, Miss Stone." Bill finally told her, looking like an embarrassed schoolboy.

She laughed archly, really from habit. Certainly, she felt anything but arch now!

"Does it really take nerve?" she countered, and was surprised at the dull flush that came through the rich tan of his long thin cheeks.

She wondered how he ever succeeded in running a comb through that tow-colored, tousled hair of his, then immediately decided that such hair exactly suited his personality. Anyone would trust him. Somehow, the antagonism she had once felt toward him had now disappeared.

"Well, you see—a popular girl like you doesn't have to take up with a gas-station man."

She quickly laughed this off "You're not on that job for life, are you? And I do admire your pluck."

"Thank you, Miss Stone. I'd rather hear that from you than —than anyone else I know."

She scarcely heard him. Hal and Lydia were holding hands in a maudlin sort of way at that remote table.

"A girl who's lost her financial standing isn't always as popular as she used to be," Raye told Bill Anderson, a trifle bitterly.

"In your case, how could it make a difference?"

"Oh, it does! I've noticed it already—in certain quarters. But I can take it. It's amusing, though —painful in spots."

There was a hint of a sob in her confession. Involuntarily, he drew her closer.

"How about forgetting it—getting away from it all?" he asked gently. 'Do you like picnics?"

"I adore them," she said, surprising herself.

"Then I'll take you to Lake Tansy next Sunday. It's a private lake on the farm of a friend of mine—Joe Landers. It's cool and shady—and there's an old flat-bottomed boat. Would that appeal to you?"

She was positive that nothing could ever thoroughly appeal to her again, but she managed a bright smile into his nice hazel eyes, saying, "It sounds like a grand plan! I'll bring a lunch."

"No, thanks—it's my party. My landlady's a top-notch cook. She'll do herself proud on a lunch for us."

Raye barely nodded. She could not speak.

Hal and Lydia were leaving the restaurant, Hal weaving along, plainly supported by Lydia's arm linked through his.

Raye clutched by an icy presentiment she could not overcome. But a few hours later, she knew exactly what this meant and had to use every ounce of will power she possessed to keep her balance between forces that seemed determined to wreck her life.

When the waltz ended, Bill Anderson took the white-faced, silent Raye back to Rex and wondered why her spirits had so abruptly wilted. He was nearly convinced that she was ill—probably ill over the heartless treatment of those snobbish friends of hers. Gosh, people could be mean sometimes! He knew. He'd had a dose of that same sort of thing himself. Before his father lost his money, what a whale of a lot of friends he'd had! Afterwards? Well, then things hadn't been so hot.

He gave Raye's arm a sympathetic squeeze, said an embarrassed "Thank you," and abruptly left her

Raye began talking to Rex with a forced animation that was very evident as she took her place opposite him.

"Why the senseless chatter, darling?" he asked, his wide forehead in furrows. "Better get those nerves of yours in order. It's all in a lifetime. What's the difference?"

"I'm sorry, Rex. How easily you read me!"

"Perhaps that's because — I'm so fond of you, Raye."

She shook her head at him disapprovingly. "Remember — you promised."

"I know. I'm a fool to hope—but that's how it is."

Soon they were dancing and Raye was trying to cling to what courage she had left. But she did not want to go home, she did want to be alone and at liberty to think. So they stayed in this charmingly appointed new restaurant until closing time—until Raye had danced and talked herself into complete weariness.

Raye said good night to Rex on the apartment porch.

Looking critically at his good-looking face under the porch light, she thought, "I'm doing you a mean trick with my sisterly attitude. I ought to be spanked."

But still it was consoling to have him for a friend, so she gave him her hand, saying, "I've enjoyed being with you—thank you, Rex—for being so—so platonic."

He took that unflinchingly.

He remarked soberly, "I might not always be that way, Raye. But please bear with me. Anyway, it will be some consolation to have you in my office."

* * *

For an instant, she wondered if it would be possible for her to care for him. Then abruptly, she knew that she couldn't, broke the serious tension between them with a light laugh and hurriedly sent him away.

Thoughtfully, she entered her humid-aired, two-roomed apartment. She switched on the light, closed and locked the door.

She leaned hard against it, shutting her eyes against the drabness of worn tapestry, scarred and chipped pine furniture, against the sight of shrunken, faded draperies.

She clenched her hands tightly at her sides, was enveloped in despair that seemed to be dragging her down into a black pit.

Hal and his protestations of eternal love! Hal and his intense desire to marry her, flirting with Lydia and being all things to his family—in the same breath!

Who and what was this Hal she had never actually known? Why did she keep a vestige of love for him in her heart? Why couldn't she wipe it completely from her consciousness, now that he had shown his true colors?

But immediately, eager excuses for him began to flood her churning brain.

Madison Audiences Enthusiastic Over New Stage Revue

Harry Clark's "Red Hot and Lovely" stage revue opened to enthusiastic audiences at the Madison theater yesterday.

Headlining the production from a standpoint of the unusual were the Three Ross Sisters, acrbatic contortionists, discovered by Robert Ripley. Back-bends from a 32-inch elevation were among their specialties.

Miss Lee, a singer of the Kate Smith type, and Star, a versatile accordionist, hailing from radio; the Perry Twins, men dancers, who once gave a command performance before King Edward; Nixon and Sans, funmakers, and the Cheret Sisters were other featured acts.

Petite Annette with a bevy of Ziegfeld girls in a parade number and a stage band round out the performance.

HISTORIC SHIP NOW SERVES AS RADIO SCHOOL

Aged Vessel, Pride of Admiral Dewey, Has Important Role In Defense Program.

SAN FRANCISCO — (INS) — Although the U. S. S. Boston will never again participate in anything as dramatic as the 1898 attack on Manila Bay, this aged warship today has an important role in the national defense program.

She is now a radio school ship, standing proudly off the Yerba Buena Island naval station in San Francisco Bay.

The once valiant Boston was the pride of Admiral George Dewey's White Squadron in the Spanish-American war. Having been hit twice, she was one of the few ships to feel the force of Spanish fire. During the World war and after, the Boston served as a receiving ship for Navy recruits.

But then came an inglorious period. Twice assigned to the scrap heap, the Boston was saved only to serve as a breakwater in front of the naval docks. She was nothing more than a mobile iron seawall stemming angry tides.

Finally the national defense increase of fighting forces gave the Boston her new usefulness. She is the home of 72 men learning radio telegraphy under the supervision of Lt. Comdr. C. M. Dolan and nine assistants.

No longer a weather-beaten relic of yesteryear, first in line for the junk pile, the Boston stands clean in Navy gray paint. Her brass is as polished as during the days when she was a commissioned fighting ship.

Again hammocks swing in her quarter, her decks resound to the busy feet of young blue jackets and the boatswain's pipe sends its shrill tweek through her bow and stern at all hours.

TURTLE STEAKS POPULAR.

KEY WEST, Fla. —(U.P.)— This ancient city on the southern most tip of Florida is becoming famous for turtle steaks. Tourists crossing the new Overseas highway from Miami have spread the fame of Key West's turtle steaks and the industry has enjoyed a boom.

COUNCIL OK'S DAMAGE CLAIM

Only one of five claims were granted by council at its regular May meeting. After voting down emergency motions that three other claims be paid, council passed an ordinance to pay $25 to Charles S. Mosey, 590 Park avenue west, for damages resulting by faulty water and sewer lines.

Claims by Walter Roslip and Sybil Scott, both owners of autos hit by city fire apparatus, were denied emergency passage. Roslip is asking $8.75 and Miss Scott, $60, in damages. Miss Scott's claim was given its second reading and Roslip's its first.

Two other claims by Betty Richey and Paul Menges, who both ask payment for damages to their cars on city streets due to alleged negligence of the city, were also denied emergency passage and given only one reading.

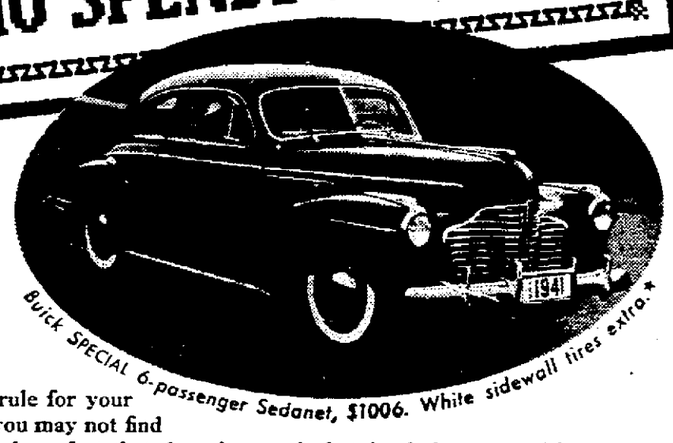
"HE SAVES MOST NOW WHO SPENDS ENOUGH"



Buick SPECIAL 6-passenger Sedanet, $1006. White sidewall tires extra.*

THERE'S a rule for your guidance you may not find in the copybooks — but that doesn't subtract one whit from its truth.

Because when you buy a new car this spring you want one that will see you through many a summer.

So while you're trading it's good sense to trade up — up to something solidly good through and through.

Trade up, for instance, to the FIREBALL power of Buick's more efficient valve-in-head straight-eight.

Trade up to the thrift of Compound Carburetion† — exclusively Buick's, and as much as 10% to 15% more economical of gasoline than last year.

Trade up to a splendiferous big Body by Fisher — to Buick's all-coil springing that is forever cushiony yet forever free from service attention — to stout, ride-steadying torque-tube drive with nothing about it to go wrong.

Buick's bodies are roomier, its frames huskier — its steering gears go three to four times as long without adjustment and its main bearings have half-again the service life in them.

Things like that really count these days — yet they're yours in a Buick for a trifle more at most than you'd spend in any event.

Go call on your Buick dealer now!

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, MAY 8, 1941.

It may confuse Europeans to learn that the Indians are fighting for the American league flag.

Patriotism has not yet reached the high point at which adequate defense can be financed by voluntary contributions.

Any young man aiming to be a lawyer can get some good mental exercise studying the rival war reports of London and Berlin.

To Present One-Purpose Tax Levy

EXCEPT for a difference of opinion as to the probable cost of rehabilitating and increasing Mansfield's fire-fighting facilities, there is an appearance of general agreement on the wisdom of this procedure.

By practically unanimous decision city council has taken action to present a one-half mill special tax levy proposal to Mansfield voters at the regular election next November.

While the total that would be produced by a half mill levy can only be approximated, an estimate by City Auditor Kelley places it at $125,000 for the five-year period covered by the proposed levy and council's estimate of requirements is based on this amount.

An additional fire station, which has been badly needed for a number of years, is included in this estimate, also purchase of new equipment to the amount of $60,000; improvement and extension of the fire alarm system, and needed improvements at No. 1 and No. 4 stations.

Recent experience with destructive fires, and the constant danger of others, without adequate protection, emphasizes the need for modernization of Mansfield's fire department as a community enterprise which directly affects every resident of this city. Six months will elapse before a vote is taken on this subject, giving ample time for full discussion.

It may be hoped that during this interval Mansfield will not be visited by a fire of such proportions that it cannot be successfully combatted with present "rattle trap" equipment.

Highest or Lowest Rates?

MANSFIELD city council has thus far failed to take action on the proposal of the Ohio Public Service company to reduce electric current rates to domestic consumers in this city, which the company planned to put into effect July 1.

The franchise under which the Ohio Public Service company operates in Mansfield does not make provision for rate agreement at regular intervals, as is in effect in many other cities, and the matter of rates is therefore left in the hands of the utility, with the result that Mansfield domestic consumers are now paying the highest rate charged by OPS in any of the cities it serves.

With introduction of considerably lower rates in several other Ohio cities, however, the claims of Mansfield to a similar reduction were presented and, as a result, the Ohio Public Service company on March 26 presented a rate schedule which would place Mansfield domestic consumers on an equal basis with those in cities having the lowest rates among those served by this company.

It is proposed for Mansfield, as in other cities where these rates have been placed in effect, that a rate-fixing ordinance covering a five-year period be passed by council, and it appears to be on this point that councilmen are unable to reach agreement.

As the offer of the company represents that the proposed rate reduction would amount to a saving of $70,000 a year to domestic consumers, or a total of $350,000 for the five-year period, it would appear to be a matter of public interest to be informed as to views of councilmen on this subject and whether they have an alternative plan under which a rate reduction can be effected, with assurance that anticipated rising cost of operation would safeguard maintenance of lower rates over a five-year period.

Act To Protect Soldiers

LAWYERS who have been studying its provisions and background believe that the Civil Relief act, adopted last year for the benefit of men conscripted into the army, will stand up and serve its purpose.

Modeled closely upon a similar statute of World war times, it has the advantage that most of the controversial questions were threshed out then.

The act is intended to ameliorate somewhat the economic distress which low army pay might cause to draftees and their families. It does not relieve soldiers of debts contracted before they enlisted or were drafted. It merely authorizes the courts to waive penalties which otherwise would be imposed for failure to pay debts, when that failure results from military service. Among other things it is designed to prevent default judgments in civil suits, when the defendant is in the armed forces or, if such judgments are entered, to make the plaintiff file a bond to protect the soldier in case the judgment later should be set aside.

An excellent study of the background, intent and provisions of the act has been prepared by Paul Steer for the Cincinnati Bar association, and is being distributed on request to public and law libraries elsewhere.

Those Long Freight Trains

FREIGHT TRAINS become almost romantic again, as they did a quarter of a century ago. Observers casually glancing at them find themselves wondering what is in the box cars, and where it is going—especially if the train is heading eastward.

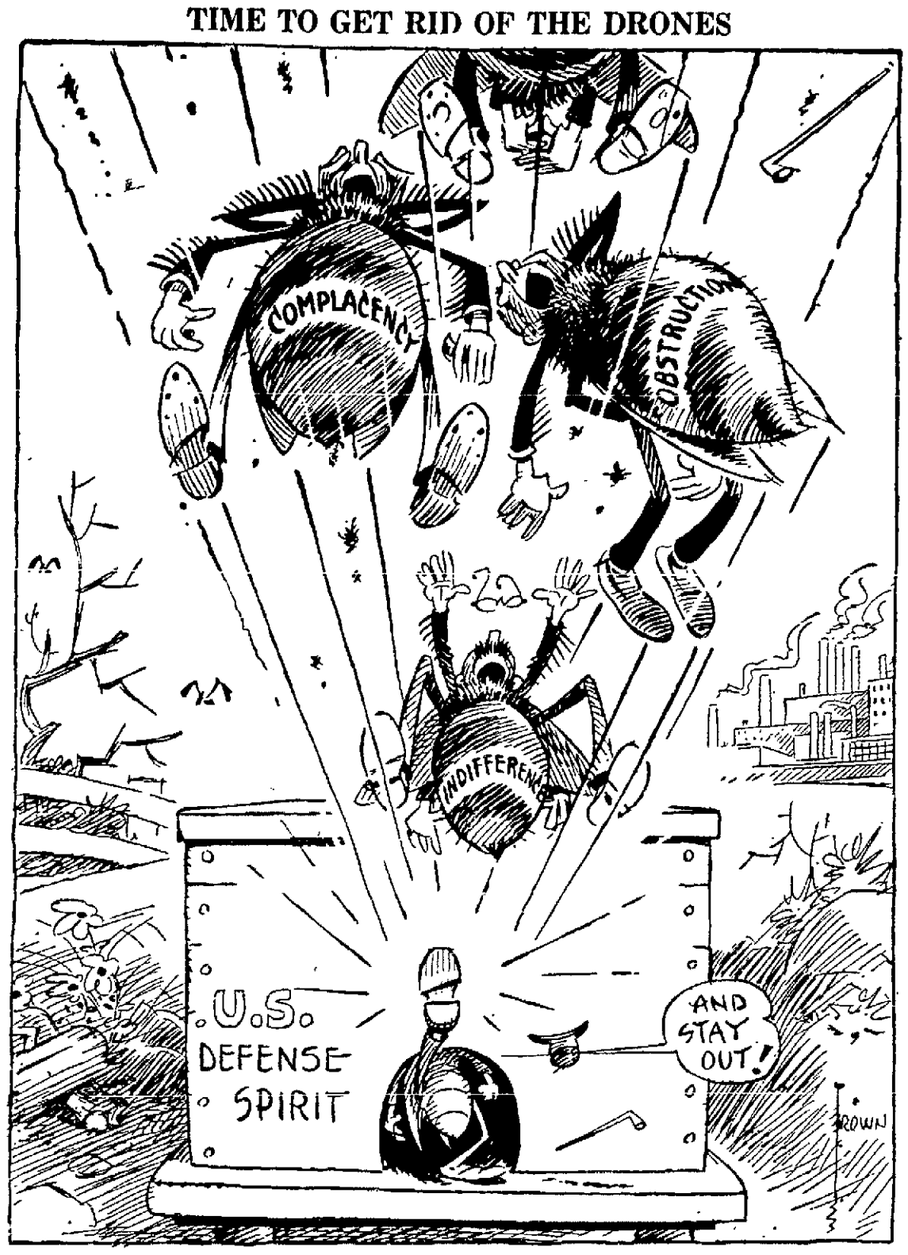
You can't help noticing those trains, not because there are so many of them but because they are so long. Some of them stretch for nearly a mile. A big, modern freight locomotive, itself a wonder to see, 100 feet long, may be towing a train of 100 cars.

And the cars themselves are a considerable improvement over those of the last war period. They are better made, they look cleaner and trimmer, they are mostly built of steel instead of wood, and they run faster and smoother, largely on ball-bearings. A big train now, running on a good stretch of track, may average 30 of 40 miles an hour instead of the 15 or 20 miles that used to be expected.

These trains are worth looking at and thinking about, not only because of the service they are performing but because of the great progress they represent in American transportation. Railroads have been rebuilt since the last war, and have been made immensely more efficient.

"Gone With the Wind" has been translated into eighteen languages and the picture has grossed more than thirty-two million dollars — indicating that the world was anxiously awaiting a good Civil war story.

TIME TO GET RID OF THE DRONES



Listen World!

Never Thought Poor

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THERE'S never an hour that I don't remember him, the dear Dad who went ahead of me so many years ago. Sometimes the figures of those we love, fade with time—or grow sentimentally distorted. But he stays as real and vivid as the day he left. And, as my own understanding grows, I realize so much more clearly what he really meant.

He'd been a giant once . . . one of those lusty, laughing young giants who made California in its early, dangerous days. A tall, smiling Titan with pale, fiery eyes and slender dancing feet—and a temper like leashed lightning. One of those hellions who guarded the Wells Fargo Express.

Always, of course, he was poor. Yes, I know; they tell such fabulous tales of the pioneers. But the truth is, most of them were poor in cash . . . rich only in fighting blood and joyous shenanigans. It was that way with him. Long before I was born the shine had gone from his only suit and the tilt from his broad-brimmed hat.

Long before, too, his splendid strength had been wrecked, in a Fourth of July tug-of-war that left him with broken breath for the rest of his life. A poor man burdened with five children, crippled in health, battling for a livelihood in an untamed land . . . not a cheerful picture. So easily he might have scarred my own outlook by the weight of his misery.

Yet I never think of my father without feeling the richer for it. And the secret lay in the fact that—

HE NEVER THOUGHT POOR.

Many must have pitied him for the blows that beat him down, but if he felt that pity he never showed it or passed it on. By some miracle which I cannot yet fathom, he rose above the broken breath and the shabby coat and lived a life that, in its brief span, flashed like a blade.

Often, thinking of him in the dusk with my heart all broken in yearning, I would give what's left of my life to buy him one new suit, which he'd have worn so well . . . or to give him a fine-fitting pair of shoes, or a splendid set of books, and see his face light with pride. . . . And then I feel ashamed at the thought. For what could I buy him that would touch the high adventure he found for himself?

There was never a poor lonely soul whom he did not comfort with his smiling warmth. Nor a shamed one that he did not lift from the mud and steady on his stumbling feet.

Wherever there was a fight, he was in the core of it, holding the love of justice and liberty as though it were a flaming torch in his worn and calloused hands.

HE NEVER THOUGHT POOR.

Of all the lessons he taught me, that is the greatest and most magical. He might have been just another failure, and sent his children out into the world as shabby as himself. But never once, in those limited years, did he let us dream that we were poor. Indeed, I remember regarding my schoolmates with open and contemptuous scorn because their lives held so much less adventure than mine. They might, and did have, finer dresses, grander parties . . . but they could not touch my richness.

For when did their fathers laugh as mine laughed . . . or storm as mine stormed . . . or stand, with shining face, telling poor men that there were better days ahead?

HE NEVER THOUGHT POOR.

They built this land on men like that.

Health And Diet

Answers To Health Questions.

—By DR. CLENDENING

Fat: "Please print in your column what you think of a diet for reducing of skimmed milk and bananas."

Answer—This is the well known Harrop diet and is very effective. Dr. Harrop, of Baltimore, designed it in order to satisfy the two fundamental requirements of the reduction diet: (1) to have a balanced diet and (2) to have the meal satisfy the appetite.

P. F. G.: "Is it safe for a middle-aged man to have an operation performed for double hernia, and can it be done without taking anesthesia?"

Answer—Yes, it is perfectly safe and most such operations nowadays are done without a general anesthetic, under local anesthesia.

S. M. S.: "Please tell me the effect of popcorn on the system. We find it very tasty after meals and wonder if it may have some harmful effect."

Answer—No, it is a very good form of cathartic and also has considerable nourishment.

Reader: "I have yellowish spots under my eyes and around my mouth. Please tell me if it is caused by poor circulation. Do you think it is?"

Answer—No. They are probably little fat deposits, which are very common and do no harm.

A.: "Is a surgical operation the only method of relief of hemorrhoids?"

Answer—No: the injection treatment is very satisfactory.

Growing Rubber At Home.

This country has been dependent on the East Indies for 90 per cent of its crude rubber. The disturbed world conditions prompted congress last year to vote a half million dollars to try to determine whether commercial production could not be developed in this hemisphere. This money has been spent entirely in Central and South America.

Congressman John Z. Anderson of California in the house recently remarked that part of that half million might well have been spent in the southwestern states. He said guayule, a desert plant indigenous to Mexico and border areas, is being proved a practical source of rubber. Last year, 8,000,000 pounds of this product was imported from Mexico. Congressman Anderson properly urges more attention to home grown guayule on a commercial basis.—Toledo Blade.

FREDERICK FUNSTON, soldier, was born at New Carlisle, Clark county in 1865.

During the Spanish-American war he served in the Philippine expeditionary force. In January, 1901, Funston was ordered home for discharge, but before the order was completed he ascertained from captured letters the location of the headquarters of Aguinaldo, leader of the Philippine insurrection.

On the night of March 14, 1901, the U. S. S. Vicksburg set Funston and some followers ashore on the island of Luzon. Posing as Aguinaldo's troops and captives, they captured Aguinaldo and were picked up by the Vicksburg.

The administration at Washington recognized this act as "the most important single military event of the year in the Philippines."

10 Per Cent Rise In Food Prices When Lend-Lease Buying Begins

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—It will not be announced, but defense authorities plan to permit a gradual rise in retail food prices up to 10 per cent by the end of this year.

This increase is considered necessary to cover higher prices which the farmer will receive when the government buys vast quantities of food for aid to Britain. But defense price controllers will not tolerate more than 10 per cent, figuring that any greater increase would merely mean more profits for the middleman.

A firm check-rein will be held on speculation and profiteering under lend-lease food plans now being quietly formulated. The authorities want to make sure that the moderate rise in food prices will go to the farmer; also they want to prevent any skyrocketing of the cost of living.

Government experts cite tomatoes as an illustration. Because of their high vitamin content, the British want 15,000,000 cases of canned tomatoes. To obtain this huge quantity and at the same time not curtail the domestic supply, the agriculture department's county agents are advising farmers to go in heavily for tomatoes. As an inducement, they are being assured of $11 to $12 a ton for their crop, about $3 more than last year's price.

This higher farm price will add about one cent a can to the retail cost. This is considered a legitimate mark-up, but price control chiefs say that no more will be allowed.

Note—First offerings of canned peaches on the West Coast opened at $1.57 a dozen and then were withdrawn in the expectation of higher prices. Last year the same peaches sold for $1.17 a dozen. Government authorities are keeping an eye on this situation.

Streamlined Foods.

BECAUSE of the acute shipping shortage, food items for shipment to Britain are being selected for high vitamin and calorie content, also for minimum bulk and weight.

In general, preference will be given to concentrated and dried foods, rather than bulky canned goods such as fruits, which contain a considerable amount of water. Tomatoes are an exception because the juice they are packed in is high in vitamins.

One item urgently desired by the British is dehydrated vegetable soup, twelve tons of which will make 700,000 bowls.

A plan is under consideration to transport some of this concentrated food in the big bombers being ferried across the Atlantic, which can easily carry a twelve-ton load.

The $400,000,000 that has been allocated for the food-aid program will be used to buy 15,000,000 cases of canned tomatoes, 20,000,000 cases of evaporated milk, 50,000,000 pounds of lard, 250,000,000 pounds of cheese, several million pounds of Wilshire cured ham, millions of powdered eggs, and thousands of tons of dehydrated vegetable soup, dried raisins and prunes.

While gigantic in itself, the program is only about three per cent of the U. S. food bill, which in 1940 was $12,000,000,000. However, unless the buying is done adroitly, serious dislocation of domestic food supplies, with resultant runaway prices, could easily develop.

The two men entrusted with avoiding these pitfalls are Milo Perkins, plain-talking surplus marketing administrator (who will shortly be given another title, "administrator of food marketing"), and Leon Henderson, hard-boiled Defense price regulator. Working together and armed with wide powers, they will be a tough team to buck.

Note—Speculative activity is blamed for the few food prices that so far have gotten out of line, and a crack-down is in the works.

Hughes Laughs.

CHIEF JUSTICE Charles Evans Hughes is by all odds the most dignified member of the Supreme Court. A paragon of august reserve, he can sit for hours listening to arguments without once changing expression. It is the younger justices, Hugo Black and William Douglas, who lead in the court's occasional smiles.

But the dighified chief justice broke down the other day and treated himself to a hearty belly laugh.

Representative John Tolan of California, as "a friend of the court," was arguing a case involving the constitutionality of a California statute forbidding transportation of a pauper across the state line. Just before Tolan appeared, the court had been listening to a series of weighty arguments on "due process," interstate commerce regulations, and other dry legalisms.

The genial, white-haired Californian, who heads a committee investigating migrant labor conditions, quickly cleared the musty atmosphere.

"Now, I do not intend to discuss the issue of constitutionality in this case," began Tolan. 'Fact is, I don't know anything about the Constitution." Then, looking straight at Hughes, he added with a grin, "I've been in congress too long."

Such frankness was too much for Hughes. Leaning back in his chair, he laughed until he shook.

Mediation Reform.

WHEN Senator Harry Byrd of Virginia recently told the senate that the defense mediation board should have the power to take jurisdiction over labor disputes without waiting for Secretary Perkins to certify them, he was saying out loud what members of the board have been discussing privately among themselves.

It was on Miss Perkins' insistence that her certifying authority was included in the president's order setting up the mediation board. OPM chiefs opposed it for fear that the labor department would use it to hold on to cases in the hope of getting credit for settling them. This is exactly what happened in the coal strike, which could have been avoided had the matter been promptly certified to the mediation board.

After a month of practical experience, members are convinced that this is the biggest single obstacle to their effectiveness in averting defense strikes. They want authority to take charge of controversies without waiting for the secretary of labor to give them the green light.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—I am a New York detective, assigned to the Broadway sector, and life on the whole seems very worthwhile. I get up around noon and have breakfast. After reading three newspapers I telephone headquarters and then go to a ballgame or a movie, depending on the weather.

If it's a movie, I stay about a half-hour and move on to a new one. If it's a ball game, I stick around four or five innings. I know by that time, whether any of the "boys" are watching the game.

My "boys" are listed in a little notebook in my hip pocket. Sometimes they make a mistake and show themselves in ball parks, or in movies. When they do, that is good for me and for my record, for I take them in.

Only last week I picked up Joe. Joe is not Joe's real name. Joe has been wanted for several months. He got into an argument with a Brooklyn barber last November and gave him a carving up. I ran into Joe buying a ticket to a ballgame. He came along without any trouble.

I EAT in restaurants, mostly in the midtown sector. You see lots of people in restaurants and besides, it doesn't cost me anything to eat in restaurants, or hotels, or nightclubs. All that goes on my expense account. Restaurants are good hunting grounds for dicks. Once I visited the same restaurant 27 consecutive nights because I knew that a fellow we were anxious to have a little chat with eventually would turn up there. He was in competition with the government, making dimes in a Bronx basement. Finally he came in, as I knew he would, and when he did, I walked over to him, put the 'cuffs on him and took him in. He's in Atlanta now.

The mistake he made was thinking a crowded fight night would create such a stir no one would notice or recognize him. They all think that big nights, like New Year's Eve and after the Army-Notre Dame game are good. As a matter of fact, most of our pinches are made during the festive occasions.

THERE was one West Sider, an Irishman, on my list whom I had looked for for months. He had red hair and blue eyes and a half-moon cut on his chin. I used to take his picture out and study it for hours at a time, trying to visualize him bareheaded, in a straw hat or even in a cap. I wanted his features photographed in my mind. One morning about 4 a. m., I was going home. I had a newspaper in my hand. It was at 46th street and Seventh avenue. As I hailed a cab another cab rolled up and this Irishman got out. I recognized him. I waited until he had paid the fare, because I wanted the cabby to have his tip. Then I "introduced" myself and presented my credentials, which included my badge and my gun, and took him in.

SOMETIMES you go weeks without doing "business." During my time on the Broadway beat I've picked up some real nice shiners and once a broken nose. But so far I've been lucky. The boys say I'm pretty handy with my hands. I weigh 189 and I'm 32. I look 40.

A Farmer's Diary

Woodchuck at Home

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

DOWN by a spring 100 feet afield from our gravel highway, a hollow oak tree stands. The flowing water is held in by a concrete basin and supplies the stock of the entire farm, 300 feet away. The hollow white oak has been growing for a century above this constant supply of water and I can well imagine how numerous tender bunches of water roots have aided in building the woody tissues of the tree.

A slit-like opening more than a foot long and five inches wide on a level with the surface soil, gives access to the cavity inside the tree. For the past three weeks I have noticed evidence of freshly excavated dirt, and yesterday I saw a large groundhog flex his body as he ran into the tree for cover. I smiled and admired his choice of a home. At various times, in passing, I have seen him peep from his open door.

A thrifty clover field stretches westward. Here, in the early morning, I easily saw the path he took, wading through the gray dewy grass for choice bits of moist tender leaves and stems. The arching clover bent above his path and almost covered his dark gray body. Only his back, on a level with the dewy surface, was easily detected. He was hungry, for he slashed and munched his tempting fare.

I wondered if he actually planned when he chose a homesite where food was abundant, just for the eating. He seemed to feel as he went on foraging that the world was made for him, and he stood atop the heap. Even when the mower cuts the fragrant clover, fresh shoots will start more appetizing than in the spring, and dense second growth will grace the fertile meadow, until after frost. On this he will fatten for his winter sleep.

After the chores were done, at evening, I cautiously approached from the other way and laid down behind the concrete wall that held the spring. In a little while he followed down the path to his favorite pasture. Although I was only ten feet off, the wind carried my scent away and he did not notice me. I watched him nip the clover leaves. It seemed to take a large amount of food to satisfy him for the night. Before I could restrain myself, I coughed, and he reared up on his haunches, looked at me rebukingly in the eye, then scampered home.

REPORT BRITISH DOWN 45 NAZI BOMBING PLANES

German Airmen Drop to Death as Night Defense Takes War's Top Toll.

few more perished when a surface air raid shelter was blasted.

This morning, beginning at dawn, British fighters ceaselessly patrolled the Thames estuary and the southeast coast. Occasional bursts of machine gun fire were heard but no bombs were dropped.

One German Messerschmitt swooped from the clouds and machine-gunned a coastal town but caused no casualties.

RAF planes chased off other raiders which operated in pairs and flew at altitudes of 20,000 feet over coastal regions.

The air ministry announced that the RAF attack on Brest was exceptionally heavy and that direct hits were scored on the German battle cruisers Scharnhorst and Gneisenau.

In addition, the statement said, the Brest naval base itself was "considerably damaged."

The two 26,000-ton battle cruisers, docked at Brest since returning from a commerce raiding expedition in the Atlantic, have been blasted repeatedly by British bombs in recent weeks.

Report Situation In Iraq Quiet

CAIRO, Egypt—(AP)—The situation in Iraq, both at the British-held Habbaniyah airport and at the port of Basra, has remained quiet since British action broke the siege of Habbaniyah two days ago, British Middle East general headquarters said today.

Basra is a port of entry into Iraq, at the head of the Persian gulf, some 300 miles southeast of Baghdad. Habbaniyah is about 60 miles west of Baghdad.

The brief communique reported only activity of British patrols in the Tobruk and Salum sectors of the North African front.

In Ethiopia, it said British forces were drawing closer to Amba Alaji, the last Italian stronghold on the Addis Ababa-Asmara road and had captured additional prisoners.

British Fear French Concession to Nazis

LONDON —(U.P.)— The question of French collaboration in the dispatch of German naval units to the Mediterranean was expected today to be called up for debate shortly in the house of commons.

The issue was advanced as British concern over the possibility of French concessions to Germany—particularly in Syria—was mounting.

A formal question on French assistance to Germany in the movement of naval units was tabled in commons by Reginald Purbrick, Conservative.

Purbrick demanded to know whether Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden had protested to Vichy against allowing Germany to send small torpedo boats down the Rhine river to Marseillee and the Mediterranenan.

Fears regarding Syria arose from the apparently favorable course of Vice-Premier Admiral Jean Francois Darlan's negotiations with the Germans. Vichy has not indicated what has been offered the Nazis in return for a substantial cut in occupation costs and relaxation of controls on the demarcation line.

There is growing apprehension in London that the French end of the bargain will prove to be permission to Germany to land a near east expeditionary force in Syria.

CONGRESS SEES CONVOY ORDER

Expects Announcement From President Within Two Weeks.

A part of their strategy, too, is to charge the president with being "too timid" and to demand that he take stronger and more vigorous steps to guarantee delivery of American aid to Britain.

In the last two weeks, there has been a terrific campaign for 'convoys." Secretary of State Hull began it by demanding "ways must be found" to get material aid to Britain "in the shortest time in maximum quantity." Secretary of the Navy Knox followed by demanding that "we must make our promise good to give aid to Britain."

There followed endorsements of "convoys" by such business leaders as John D. Rockefeller, jr., and Thomas E. Lamont, of the J. P. Morgan firm, and Wendell Willkie, the GOP presidential nominee of 1940. After them came the political bellwethers of congress—Sen. Guffey, of Pennsylvania, Rep. Vinson, of Georgia, and Sen. Pepper, of Florida—calling for "convoys."

Lastly, Secretary of War Stimson demanded that the United States navy be used to "make the seas safe for deliveries of our munitions to Great Britain."

Some authorities suspect the "convoy" issue is being used as another step toward making the United States a full partner of Britain in the second world war.

Their philosophy is that the United States is being led into war step by step—repeal of the arms embargo, gift of destroyers, American construction of bases in British territory, "all out aid to Britain," the lease-lend bill, the seizure of Axis ships in American ports—then war.

Against this philosophy stands the pledge of President Roosevelt to the American people:

"Your boys are not going to be sent into any foreign wars."

said that the leak was located beneath the Baltimore and Ohio track spur on East Fifth and that the damage was probably caused some time ago during railroad repair work but had not caused any trouble until hit by the rain.

The maintenance superintendent explained that phones connected with the cable went out as the water gradually seeped toward the center of the cable core. He said now that the trouble had been located that the company hoped to have all service restored by nightfall.

Along with other offices in the district, telephone service to the Ohio Brass company and Tappan Stove company was threatened.

The company called on city sewer workers yesterday to clean a blocked sewer near the leak. Lisle said that water from the sewer had been thrown into the telephone manholes. Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton said that the city was cleaning the sewer immediately.

At the same time, Lisle announced that the company expected to have the entire phone system cut over to full dial operation by the last week of this month.

Work will begin on downtown private and business phones by the middle of next week, according to Lisle and should progress rapidly.

Lisle estimated that 8,500 eight-party phones had already been converted to dial operation and that 5,500 remained. Those left include private, business, and four-party lines, mostly in the downtown area.

The company was forced to delay this step in the transfer until individual companies having special switchboards had made necessary changes. Lisle said that the companies had promised to be ready for the change over by early next week.

Approximately 5,500 phones remain to be transferred. Lisle said that no notice of future changes would be made. Subscribers hearing a dial tone will be expected to use dial operation immediately. The superintendent said that phones would be converted in 400 or 500 lots at slack periods in the day.

Senate Takes Up Measure To Requisition Foreign Ships In United States.

cause of the already demonstrated majority power to maintain for Mr. Roosevelt a free hand in meeting the problems created by the Axis blockade.

Fast breaking developments here and in foreign capitals are building up a situation of dramatic suspense which apparently will persist at least until Mr. Roosevelt speaks next week. Here are some of the developments which suggest that new moves are imminent:

1. Addressing the American Booksellers' convention here, Knox warned that failure to save Great Britain would confront the United States with the combined fleets of Germany, Italy, France and Japan.

2. Willkie warned an audience of 25,000 in Madison Square Garden, New York, that we are next on the Axis list if Great Britain falls and added: "I care not whether you call safe delivery convoying, patroling, airplane accompaniment or what not. Give Britain destroyers and see that those ships loaded with the ever-increasing production of America deliver their cargoes safely to the ports of western and northern England."

3. The United States under terms of the lend-lease law is arming Norwegian merchant vessels operating between this country and British ports. The armament includes .50 caliber anti-aircraft batteries and heavier guns for use against submarines.

4. From Rome came warnings that American vessels entering the Axis blockade zone would be sunk and that the Panama and Suez canals would become "roads of a war to the death."

There was no backing down here, however. Instead, the navy moved to augment its Atlantic patrol by taking over the deep sea operations of the coast guard involving about 20 vessels.

Ten Ohioans Vote For Ship Requisition

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Ten Ohio Democratic congressmen voted for legislation to authorize President Roosevelt to take over idle foreign-flag ships while 12 Republicans and two Democrats voted against the measure.

Democrats voting for the measure were Claypool, Crosser, Davis, Harter, Holbrook, Imhoff, Kirwan, Secrest, Thom and Young.

Democrats against were Hunter and Sweeney.

Republicans voting no on the bill were Baumhart, Bender, Bolton, Brown, Clevenger, Elston, Jenkins, Jones, McGregor, Smith Hess and Vorys.

forced the women to accompany him across the brush-covered slopes.

Some distance from the highway Wells halted, Stocker quoted Miss Destree, and instructed Mrs. Wells to write a note to her husband, Ray Wells.

The note asked Ray to help Albert Wells to find a half-sister, Violet.

Mrs. Wells wrote the note and gave it to Wells, who was holding the baby. Then, Miss Destree said, Wells fired twice at point-blank range. She died instantly.

He then turned on the girl who fled in terror, Wells, she said, shot her three times and she fell. She remained still until after she saw Wells lay the infant upon the breast of its mother and depart.

She then began crawling across boulders and mesquite toward the road. She screamed at the top of her voice attracting a farmer who called authorities.

Stocker said Mrs. Wells' husband was employed at the Santa Fe shops here. When he could not be located, Stocker surmised Albert Wells had brought the note to his brother and that the two had then started out to find the half-sister.

Stocker issued an all-points broadcast for Wells' arrest.

TO CONSCRIPT CARRIER BIRDS

Army Set to Draft Pigeons For Service In the Signal Corps.

WILMINGTON, Del. — (U.P.) — Conscription is in the air for carrier pigeons.

Members of the Wilmington Racing Pigeon club are expecting to be asked to register their pigeon lofts with the 2d Army Corps headquarters. The anticipated request has been regarded as a prelude to possible conscription of the birds in case of national emergency.

Major John K. Shawman, in charge of the army's pigeon service, said that the pigeon is still of inestimable value to the signal corps because it can carry messages when all communication lines are down during a blitzkrieg.

On the other hand, the homing bird is a menace to national security when used by fifth columnists.

For that reason, pigeon fanciers await the call to register their birds with the army.

Many club members here have offered to donate their prize birds, although the government has indicated a willingness to pay for them.

Major Shawman explained that the offspring of prize birds are more valuable than the parents birds. A fledgling is easy to teach. The unschooled bird, for example, can learn rapidly latest flight maneuvers such as two-way flying, night flying, and flying from moving, portable lofts.

Young birds conscripted for signal corps work will be trained at the army's pigeon headquarters at the army's pigeon headquarters at Fort Monmouth, N. J.

"AWAY with WINTER DIRT!"

Make sure you Don't go through another "SMUDGE and DUST" Winter . . . MODERNIZE Your Heating System NOW!

Winter dirt makes spring housecleaning necessary. Wouldn't you like to be able to do away with most of your spring housecleaning work? You can . . . if you do away with WINTER DIRT! Winter dirt is the dirt and grime that comes from out-of-date heating systems . . . the coal dust and outside dirt that is picked up in the furnace and rooms and carried through your home. An inexpensive blower-filter unit is designed to remove up to 97 per cent of the dirt and dust in the air. That's why walls, curtains, furniture, and furnishings are practically as clean at the end of winter as at the beginning . . . why spring housecleaning is no longer the job it used to be. And don't forget, too, that germs ride on the dirt and dust in the air, so when you remove the dirt you remove the germs. You'll love the cleanliness that a blower-filter unit makes possible. Get the facts NOW!

OLD ARMY MEN CLING TO MULE

Military Strategists Claim Animals Better Than Trucks In Mud.

FORT BLISS, Tex.—(U.P.)—This is a mechanized age, and the army is utilizing its share of machine-transportation and power, but motor vehicles never will knock out the tough army mule.

That's the consensus of military strategists at Fort Bliss, America's largest cavalry post.

Historians at the fort who have done research work on the subject, say the mule started with the army. They base their prediction that the mule never will be entirely supplanted by motor transportation and power on the proved fact that the animal is at its best in rough going.

They point out that big trucks can't get through heavy mud, climb trackless mountains or go through jungles. The mule can.

Capt. Richard E. Arnold, who is serving his 21st year in the army and who now commands the Fort Bliss mule pack train—the only one in America—insists that the mule represents much of the color and romance of the army.

Capt. Arnold's mule pack train—Troop E—includes 303 animals, 73 men and two officers, divided into four platoons.

He and other veterans like to tell of the feats of sturdy mules in the World war and of the times they carried ammunition through to the front in France when trucks were mired in the mud or in shell holes.

First white man to gaze upon the Grand Canyon was Don Garcia Lopez de Cardenas, a captain in Coronado's expedition, who reached the gorge in 1540. He was unimpressed by what now is regarded as one of the world's greatest scenic spectacles.

LOS ANGELES AREA BLINKS AT RAID SHELTER SURVEY

LOS ANGELES —(U.P.)— Southern California is drawing up plans it hopes never will be used—blue prints of $50 backyard bomb shelters, estimates of how many people can crowd into storm drains and auto tunnels, and a checkup of what big buildings will or won't withstand bombing.

Great Britain's daily rain of explosives and fire bombs seems far from American shores, but civic and business leaders are determined that citizens in their communities here shall be prepared for whatever may come.

A committee has been organized with the tongue-twisting title of "Major Disaster Emergency Council's Passive Defense Committee." From it when the need arises, will stem smaller air raid defense groups.

Los Angeles city engineers have drawn up plans for community air raid shelters as well as for underground transportation systems which would be safe from the heaviest bombs. These plans, already in blueprint form, would be adaptable to most major cities of the Pacific Coast.

A plan has been formulated by City Engineer Lloyd Aldrich, acting chairman of the defense committee, whereby all storm drains in the city can be made available for bomb shelters to accommodate 170,000 persons.

Vehicle tunnels would accommodate at least 16,700 persons, Aldrich said, and pedestrain and street railway tunnels another 1,000.

The committee, which probably will be the "civilian command, in case of an air attack, is making plans to utilize all available space in downtown buildings for use as Red Cross stations and shelters.

Basil E. Rice, coordinating director of the committee, disclosed that surveys are being made to estimate the available bomb-proof space in private and public buildings in crowded shopping centers. In event of raids, civilians would be rushed in an orderly manner to these shelters when the warnings sounded.

Goodenough, 78 Glen Beck Lane, will travel to Atlanta, Ga., for her wedding, according to announcement made last evening when Mrs. Goodenough, and Mrs. Ben Goodenough, sister-in-law of the bride-elect, entertained at the former's home. Guests at the party Wednesday evening were surprised to learn of the coming wedding when they viewed the unusual and attractive centerpiece which consisted of large crystal bowl with a glass cylinder center. Pastel flowers floated between the cylinder and the bowl and a floral arrangement in a chemical solution which caused tiny white balls to bounce in the water. On these balls were written the names of the couple in black lettering. The centerpiece was completed with an arrangement of cathedral candles in silver holders. Favors were concealed in the indirect lighting bowl above the long table where the guests were seated. Music was played at that time from a victrola with interruptions by Ben Goodenough, brother of the bride, who interviewed her parents, who told of the coming event. Favors were miniature records.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, May 9.

The energies and faculties may be found under high impetus for accomplishment and notable achievement on this day, according to the lunar and mutual aspects. New projects of a surprising or unusual scope may be greatly accelerated, and should develop by hard labor and sound judgment to a satisfactory climax, but there seems to be a note of the perplexing, strange or erratic to complicate or frustrate the highest objectives. It might be an accident or other untoward event.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of definite action and progress, with affairs moving at lively tempo and under greatly accelerated forces and faculties. Important projects and high ambitions should advance upon high goals, with well organized plans, surprising objectives and much audacity and ingenuity, but a certain element of the strange, irregular and unpredictable may creep in to thwart or frustrate. Perhaps accident or queer visitation may temporarily impede progress in most constructive endeavors.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

MY ASTONISHED whisper did not reach the ears of anyone save Noel, who was at my side by the door through which he had just entered, but he was quick to answer it.

"I thought you'd get it," he whispered back. "It's driving me mad. But don't let them think you've noticed. I put on a show all the time. Just come with me, so Mary can see you when she comes out of the ether."

"No. Wait till the music stops." I murmured. "It won't be long now."

But the seconds ticked intolerably away into minutes, fully five of them, while we stood there unnoticed by anyone in the room, so intent were the spectators, and even the other dancers, upon the perfectly matched and skillful, beautiful movements of Mary Veritzen, star of my play, and Stephen Redfield, her leading man.

It was an artistic sight, I supposed, to delight the gods, but I wasted no time appraising it. My eyes rested with absorbed questioning, first upon Mary's face, then on her partner's, and then on the other faces I knew, searching for their reactions to the beautiful thing we were witnessing.

Noel Masks His Anguish

I did not need to look at Noel's face. I knew what anguish he was masking beneath his apparently careless expression. I remembered the first time he had seen Stephen Redfield, when from my little study, where I had hidden him, he witnessed that first general rehearsal of my play, which had seen Mary's formal exaltation to stardom by her father-in-law, keenest and most merciless critic of the theatrical world.

Mary had been so absorbed in her own performance that she had noticed nothing outside herself. But I had seen plainly—and with anxiety—the ardent admiration with which her leading man was regarding her, a romantic emotion which had banished his former patent determination to pit his professional skill against her comparative inexperience, and "hog the lines," making her role as subordinate to his as he could manage.

No eyes of any experience could miss the obvious fact. Stephen Redfield was falling in love with Mary. Philip Veritzen had paid no attention to it. A long experience among theatrical people had left him so blase as to their emotions that he simply did not see them. But I had seen it, and Nancy Carew, old, experienced actress and sterling woman, had seen it. And I could still hear the parting warning she had whispered to me, after that rehearsal had come to its dramatic close.

"Look out for your lovely niece. That Steve Redfield's bad medicine," she had said. And as I saw the young leading man's eyes gazing down at Noel's wife with unutterable love and longing—or the simulation of those emotions—in them, I flayed myself with the recollection that, absorbed in my own renewed happiness and the revel in domesticity which had been mine, I had failed dismally to heed Nancy Carew's adjuration. I had not "looked out" for Mary, and now I wondered just how far things had gone.

Far enough, evidently, to drive Noel "nearly mad," as he had just whispered to me. But I reflected, with a touch of cynicism, that it did not take much jealousy, whether well-founded or not, to upset the equilibrium of a young husband, especially one of Noel's intensely emotional and sensitive temperament.

I remembered, as vividly as if it had been a quarter of an hour before, the difficult task I had at the close of that rehearsal. Noel had been ready then to call Stephen Redfield out and thrash him for his impudence in looking at Mary with adoration in his eyes, and I had had my work cut out for me in calming him down and making him realize that, because Mary was so lovely and gifted, he must expect both admiration and adoration for her from other men.

Must I go all over that again? I asked myself wearily. And then the music stopped suddenly, and, though Stephen Redfield kept his arm around her, Mary released herself deftly, seeing Noel and me as she did so.

"Oh! Auntie Madge!" she gurgled, rushing toward me.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

DIGGING YOUR GRAVE

SOME PLAYERS dig their own graves with their mouths. Inability to keep them shut at the right time advertises a condition to the opponents which the latter capitalize by going ahead into a contract they had not even considered. This is especially true of some sacrifice bids, over the vulnerable opponents' constructively bid game contracts. It tells them about your own side's extreme weakness and also the extreme length of your side's suit, so that one or the other of them can visualize shortage in his partner's hand and therefore the likelihood of your unwillingness to remain inactive.

(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♣	Pass
1 ♦	1 ♠	1 NT	2 ♠
3 ♣	3 ♠	3 NT	Pass.
Pass	4 ♠	5 ♣	Pass
5 NT	Pass	6 ♣

North and South were using the Whist club artificial club convention, the opener guaranteeing only three "top tricks," and the 1-Diamond response denying two aces or an ace-king. Notice how the non-vulnerable opponents butted in to interrupt the smooth flow of information. Also notice how, after the 3-No Trumps call by South, North had passed. In other words, the bidding was closed so far as their side was concerned.

When East then reopened it, with his 4-Spades, palpably a sacrifice call, he advertised first the extreme weakness of his side in high cards and second the side's large number of spades. South therefore could easily read his partner's singleton, having three himself. His 5-Club bid indicated his desire to take advantage of the distribution and ruffing possibilities. When North then showed he had good high card strength with his 5-No Trumps, despite his denial of two aces, South logically tried the slam in clubs.

West led his spade 5 to the A. Six clubs followed, and the heart 9 was then sent through to the J. The remaining five tricks went to the spade K, heart A, K, and 10 and the diamond A. West was duly sorry he reopened the bidding.

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

If North leads the diamond 3, how should West play this hand for 6-Spades?

UNEMPLOYMENT BILL EXPECTED TO PASS HOUSE

Liberalized Insurance Measure Gets Senate O. K.; Labor, Employers Favor It Mildly.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—An extensive liberalization of the unemployment insurance act, approved unanimously by the Ohio senate, appeared headed toward house passage without major changes today.

Organized labor, while not completely satisfied, was disposed to support the measure, described by Senator Fred Reiners (R. Hamilton) as "the most liberal in the United States."

Representatives of employers, anxious to delete a two-week increase in the duration of benefits payments, indicated they would not press their requests if it jeopardized the bill.

The house judiciary committee went to work on it immediately. Despite suggestions of some members that the bill be recommended for passage "as is," it was turned over to a subcommittee for insertion of technical amendments.

The measure is estimated to increase benefits to the unemployed by $7,500,000 a year and reduce by $16,000,000 annually the pay roll taxes now contributed by employers to the insurance fund.

Meanwhile, the senate and house took up 34 bills for action amid prospects that working sessions would be extended through Saturday, if not into next week.

Although the house had voted to quit work today, Speaker William McCulloch told members there was a "distinct possibility" they would be here until Saturday night.

House and senate leaders went into a huddle to determine a definite date for sine die adjournment of both houses. The house has tentatively fixed May 20. So much important business is unfinished, however, that it may be extended.

Among 18 bills on the house calendar today were senate-approved proposals to require county-wide registration of voters and to set up a state defense council. Sixteen measures were on the senate's work sheet.

A dispute between the house and senate over amendments to a bill allowing county political executive committees to dictate appointments to county elective office vacancies was interpreted in informed quarters as a "play" to kill the proposal.

RULES PAYMENT TO IDLE MINERS

Atkinson O. K.'s $400,000 In Benefits For Soft Coal Shutdown Period.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—H. C. Atkinson, administrator of the state bureau of unemployment compensation, ruled today that approximately $400,000 in benefits were due some 20,000 Ohio miners idle during the April bituminous coal mine shutdown.

Basing his decision on the individual claim of David C. Cook of Gloucster, a driller, Atkinson held that "the broad general issues involved" were similar to those of the 1939 work stoppage, in which miners were held to be not on strike and therefore entitled to awards.

Anticipating a possible appeal to the bureau's board of review, however, Atkinson said he would withhold payments for 10 days.

In the 1939 work stoppage Atkinson ruled that a strike existed. Miners appealed to the board, which reversed Atkinson, and courts upheld the board, with the state supreme court refusing to review.

However, only a small number of miners actually have received benefits for the 1939 stoppage since final determination was entered in the case of only one appellant coal company, and more than a score of others have enjoined Atkins from making further payments.

Atkinson estimated that claims on file for the April shutdown would aggregate $100,000 a week for the four weeks consumed by contract negotiations between miners and operators.

The 1939 decision held in effect that miners and operators were in a state between the expiration of one contract and the acceptance of another, and hence no strike could have existed because there was no employe-employer relationship.

The Richland County Willkie club swelled the Mansfield Community Fund treasury with a check for $70 today. The amount represents that left in the club treasury after expenses connected with the last fall's Willkie campaign were paid. Since the club was composed of both Republicans and Democrats who worked for Willkie during the campaign, the club did not want to turn the money over to the Republican organization or to the Democratic organization, club officials told Jane Williams, Community Fund secretary.

Cram reports that they have heard some strange noises in the place at night but so far the noises have not materialized into anything more dangerous than noise.

BUY BONDS

Sinking Fund Trustees Take Up City's $25,000 Issue.

City Auditor Paul L. Kelley announced today that the city's sinking fund trustees purchased the city's issuance of $25,000 in bonds to cover part of its expense in the construction of an overhead bridge for the Baltimore and Ohio railroad crossing on West Fourth street.

Council authorized the bond issue last Wednesday after the state highway department had blamed the city for holding up the advertising of bids for the project contracts. The state department said it would be unable to proceed until the city made definite arrangements for paying its $31,000 share of the cost.

In addition to the bond issue, council transferred $6,000 from the general fund to complete its share. The $25,000 will be paid this year and the $6,000 in 1942.

The sinking fund purchased the bonds at two and a half per cent interest. The bonds will be retired $5,000 annually from 1942 through 1946.

COVERS ALMOST ALL PRODUCTS MADE IN U. S.

Steel, Most Metals Included on List of 300 Items Now Under Control.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — (INS) — In a sweeping move toward "all-out" defense production, the office of production management today granted to the war and navy departments first call on virtually every product of American industry which might be used by the nation's armed forces.

The "blanket order" was contained in an expanded "priorities critical list" of 45 new items, including steel and nearly all other metals, on which the army or navy could obtain delivery ahead of non-defense demands.

The new order issued by E. R. Stettinius, jr., OPM priorities director, boosted to nearly 300 the items placed under inventory control, but most significant was the "about face" on the definition of parts and accessories affected by the various products.

"The items that appear on this list shall be deemed to include all fabricated, mechanical or electrical component parts and accessories necessary for the completion, maintenance or mechanical operation thereof," the order read.

Previously Stettinius defined the parts and accessories of the various items as those "which are designed to meet military specifications, and as designed are not commercially useful for civilian purposes."

Thus, OPM spokesmen explained, the army and navy, if they desire, may place on their preferred delivery list almost any item which armed forces could use in camp or on the march, even if it were designed primarily for civilian use.

The same spokesmen added, however, that they did not expect the war and navy departments to invoke priorities on all items unless necessary.

The new list included such items as semi-finished, finished and fabricated steel and steel alloys; pig and fabricated copper, chromium, all types of Diesel engines, iron and steel products, including rolled, drawn, forgings, castings and pig iron; fire brick, lead, manganese, all electric motors above fractional horsepower, portable and power driven tools, and wire for electrical instruments.

ASKS CONGRESS EXTEND POWER

Morganthau Calls For Extension of Stabilization Authority.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Secretary of the Treasury Morganthau today asked congress to extend for two more years the life of the $2,000,000,000 exchange stabilization fund and President Roosevelt's power to devalue the dollar.

Morganthau told the house coinage committee that "the administration has no present intent whatsoever to devalue the gold content of the dollar . . . but certainly this is not the time to remove flexible powers."

The present act authorizing operation of the fund and the giving the president power to devalue the dollar expires June 30.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD — Just to prove how important it is to bring your glitter along in Hollywood, even if you're not a star, I give you Limey Plews' story of the navy men and the chairs.

Lieut. Ray C. Needham, flying officer on the U. S. S. Saratoga, and Commander John Poppen, navy department, Washington D. C., medical division, are technical advising on "Dive Bomber," the service picture.

ROBBIN COONS

Lieut. Needham had been wearing his uniform that day. Commander Poppen was in mufti.

"You ought to wear your uniform around here, Commander." Limey suggested, conversationally.

The commander smiled. shook his head. Not long afterward, when the two officers were standing around during a wait between scenes, the service boy approached the uniformed lieutenant with a smile and a chair. "Here y'are, Lieutenant!" he said. Then, to the superior officer:

"I'll get you one in a minute, Doc!"

Commander Poppen, chuckling, reflected that perhaps he had better wear his uniform around there.

Among the vagaries of movie casting, consider the strange fate of Dan Dailey, jr.

Dailey, a handsome blond lad with the leading-man stamp on him, is getting ahead as a character-heavy. His first movie, "The Mortal Storm," made him a leering Nazi storm trooper; the jeering bumptious "champ" of "Ziegfeld Girl" and the smooth, villainous heel of "Washington Melodrama" are typical of his assignments since.

And where did he get his training for these sinister roles?

Why, he came to pictures from a juvenile lead in the musical comedy, "I Married an Angel!"

FLIES TO MEET DISTANT TEAMS

Salt Lake City's Air Base Cage Team Plays on Flying Schedule.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (U.P.)—Salt Lake City's 5th air base basketball team is trying to line up a few games—and officials don't much care where.

In the old days, the San Diego Marines used to take a week off and jaunt a thousand miles or more for a football game. It was always quite a trip, and required a good deal of unwinding of red tape.

Things are a little different now.

For instance, the squad took on the Moffat field five the other night.

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon, the Salt Lake cagers climbed into a bomber and soared away. They landed at Moffat field—almost 1,000 miles away in California—about 7 p. m., played their 8 o'clock game, and then flew back and went to bed.

Games have been scheduled with teams in Texas, Illinois and Indiana.

But Capt. J. G. McKinnon, the post athletic director, isn't anxious to widen the scope of operations too much.

"We'll play anything in our own circuit—the continental U. S. A.," he says, "but I don't think we'll book any week-end games with Panama or Hawai this year."

CLEVELAND POLICEMAN COLLECTS LETTERS FROM NAVAL OFFICERS

CLEVELAND (INS)—Patrolman David Bollinger of Scout Car 258 has the necessary perserverance attached to the hobby he follows—the hobby being the collection of letters from admirals and commanders in the U. S. navy.

It isn't a simple matter getting and admiral to write to you these days, but to a man like Bollinger who once waited 17 months to get a camera shot of a lightning bolt striking a skyscraper it merely means "waiting it out."

As a result, Bollinger is known by commanders from Puerto Rico to Shanghai, including all the way stations.

Bollinger started out as a candid camera bug in 1930. Naval recruiting officers on his downtown beat interested him in the Navy, particularly in collecting cancelled envelopes of the first and last days of operations of ships of the fleet.

One day he got a personal letter from Admiral Thomas Hart, commander of the Pacific Fleet, and Bollinger was off on his new hobby.

He wrote dozens of letters in longhand, but his answers didn't come in too fast at first. Commanders were a little bit cautious.

Up until 1940 he had only 125 autographed envelopes. Then the official navy magazine did a piece on him. The resultant publicity almost doubled his answers and he now has more than 220.

The prize packet in his collection is a group of letters from Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, retired, who defied the Japanese fleet in Swatow harbor, and gave Bollinger all the colorful details in longhand.

The signature of Admiral George Dewey of Manila Bay fame is another honored item. He got the letter and the autograph from Rear Admiral A. Farenholt, retired, who also wrote Bollinger.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

KISS YOUR TIRED FEELING GOODBYE!
Pepless Many Suffer Low Blood Count—And Don't Know It.
The baffling thing about low blood count is that you can weigh about as much as you ever did—even look healthy and strong, yet may often feel as if you had lead in your legs, dragged, tired and pepless.
Low blood count oft times may mean you haven't got enough red blood corpuscles. It is their vital job to carry life-giving oxygen from your lungs to throughout your body. And just as it takes oxygen to explode gasoline in your car and make the power to turn the wheels, so you must have plenty of oxygen to oxidize the energy in your body and give it driving power.
Get Dr. Williams Pink Pills today. They are world-famous for the help they give in increasing the number and strength of red corpuscles when they have been weakened by simple anemia. Then with your blood count up, you'll feel like bounding up the stairs as if you were floating on air. Ask your druggist for Dr. Williams Pink Pills today. 69c.

Spectators at the Mansfield Tyger-alumni grid game Tuesday night were startled between the third and fourth quarters to see two members of the battling alumni aggregation really battling, and each other.

Yes sir, the boys were flashing fists at faces in furious fashion there for a minute or two.

Fist fights on football fields are not so uncommon as to arouse undue excitement, but one between members of the same team, and during the lull between quarters, that was really something. And the crowd cheered.

* * *

"That's Martin Henke and Alex Radovich," said someone on the Tyger bench. "They're always running around together, and they're always fighting. It's just a friendly gesture. But let someone else start something with either of 'em, and he'll have both of 'em on his neck.

"That happened at Ashland a couple of years ago, and I'll never forget it. It was brutal while it lasted."

* * *

If you're irked, may I suggest, sirs,
You spare me from those friendly gestures.

* * *

"What could I do?" asked Referee Bill Keefe. "I had to go on down the field to put the ball down for the next quarter."

"Yes," retorted Timer Harry Mehock. "I noticed you were hurrying away from the scene of action."

"But I was coming back," said Keefe.

"After it was all over," agreed Mehock.

Here, here, boys, whose fight is this?

Coach Paul Snyder of the Tygers was the first to agree that the scrappy alumni outfit gave his boys all they could handle until the oldsters just plain wore out.

"Next year," says Snyder, "I'll give the alumni a chance to get in condition, and get organized as a team. Probably schedule two weeks' regular practice for them."

That means that tough bunch of juniors Snyder has left from last fall will be on the alumni team of next spring and will be in shape to go. Great news for the sophomores of today!

LLOYD WANER GOES TO BRAVES IN TRADE

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—The dynasty of the Waners with the Pittsburgh Pirates is at an end after 15 years in which two small but sure-hitting Oklahoma boys enshrined themselves as the game's greatest brother act.

Besides losing 7-6 to the Braves at Boston yesterday, the Pirates gave up Lloyd Waner in an even swap for Pitcher Nick Strincevich, who won 4 and lost 8 last year. It was another step in the Bucs' campaign to build up pitching strength.

The Pirates dropped Paul, older of the pair of veteran outfield and batting sovereigns, last December.

Walker Returns To Lineup

Peck Seeks Spark For Indians' Attack.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—One little spark might have set off a Cleveland rally that would have pre- by the New York Yankees. by the New Yorkr Yankees.

To provide that extra oomph today Manager Roger Peckinpaugh indicated he would put Gerry Walker, known as a "clutch" player, back in the lineup. Out more than a week with a strained muscle Walker takes over the outfield post held by Beau Bell.

* * *

Peckinpaugh was undecided between Al Smith and Mel Harder for mound chores. The Yankees selected the veteran Red Ruffing.

tching failure and inability of two of the club's three left-handed batters to hit Southpaw Marius Russo beat the Tribe in the opener of a two-game series.

Russo scattered 10 Cleveland hits and Roy Weatherly was the only southpaw batter able to solve his offerings. Roy collected a single and a double to mark the 10th consecutive game in which he has hit safely.

* * *

Jeff Heath struck out twice and got one single in four tries and Hal Trosky fanned once and hit into two double plays in the same number of official trips to the plate.

Al Milnar walked four and gave up seven hits before being taken out in the fourth inning with the bases filled. Clint Brown allowed three hits and one run up until the eighth. Then Harry Eisenstat took over and was pounded for five blows and two runs.

The Indians gave 12,000 supporters quite a thrill in the ninth with a two-run rally that was finally nipped as Joe DiMaggio backed up against the center field wall to pull down a drive off Trosky's bat.

Weatherly's double with the bases clogged plated Cleveland's first two runs in the second inning. In the fourth Ray Mack tripled and scored on a fly. Successive singles by Mack, Rollie Hemsley and Pinch-Hitter Walker, coupled with Gerry Priddy's wild throw, gave the Indians their two tallies in the last-inning uprising.

Buddy Rosar's two doubles and a single featured New York's 15-hit attack. Priddy drove in three runs with a single and a double and Russo proved himself a hitter too by punching out three safe blows.

* * *

The Redskins will entrain tonight for St. Louis where Bob Feller is slated to open a four-game series.

Kilbane Loses Fight Verdict

Promoters Succeed In Killing Measure.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Johnny Kilbane of Cleveland, former world's featherweight boxing champion, took a shellacking in the house judiciary committee last night, but was on his feet smiling when the fight ended

The committee first stripped and then virtually killed his bill to create a state athletic commission with sole jurisdiction over boxing and wrestling.

* * *

Only three committee members voted to recommend the measure for passage, while 10 favorable votes were needed. Five members voted against it.

Senator Kilbane's proposal had been revised so extensively that it hardly could be recognized as the bill which the senate passed with only two dissenting votes.

Heavy opposition from fight promoters caused the committee to exempt wrestling to pull most of the proposed state commission's "teeth," and finally to transfer the remaining powers to local boxing commissions

As the final decision was announced, the white-haired exchamp forced a grin, bowed to the committee and remarked:

"I thank you for your consideration, gentlemen."

Exhibition Games Booked By Braves for Week-End

After experiencing 13 days of perfect training weather, candidates seeking berths on the Mansfield Braves' roster enjoyed their first day of rest yesterday.

The postponement was not relished by Manager Alex Clowson, but the rains were a welcome relief to Groundskeepers Mose McCullough and Herman Potts, who have been handicapped in conditioning the playing field because of the lack of moisture.

* * *

The Braves' candidates returned to the practice field today in preparation for their week-end exhibition games with the Bellville and Ontario semi-pro teams.

Bellville will provide the opposition for the Clowsonmen at 2:30 p. m. Saturday, and the Braves will engage Ontario at the same hour on Sunday.

Present plans call for the Braves to drill under the lights at the Fairground Monday and Tuesday nights to complete training for the opening Ohio State league game with the Lima Pandas at 8 p. m Wednesday

Meanwhile, the Braves' chieftain is confronted with the task of selecting an opening game lineup

This job was further complicated today when two more huskies of the Flint, Mich., club were released to the Braves. They are Grafton Moore of Clio, Mich., an infielder, and Ken Mills of East Lansing, Mich., a pitcher.

First Baseman Harry Siegbert was still an absentee today.

Other stars of the Youngstown club include Dorothy Nosman who played on the national championship team of 1937 and 1938, and Mary Hallas who was with the champions in 1939. Marge Cumiskey is another outstanding player with the visiting team.

Dodgers Edge Out Cardinals

Miracle Team Myth Gets Kicked Around Again.

By JUDSON BAILEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

THERE are no miracle teams in the major leagues this year and the pennant races today are as wide open as the day the season started.

After soaring along on spectacular winning streaks until their followers were fanned into a dangerous state of excitement the Cleveland Indians and St. Louis Cardinals now have lost two games in a row and both the American and National leagues are in as much confusion as when their first intersectional strife began ten days ago.

The Brooklyn Dodgers destroyed the legend that St. Louis had a collection of supermen yesterday. They wrung out a 4-3 decision in a gripping drama that ended like a musical comedy when Manager Billy Southworth switched his pitchers four times for six batters in the last two innings and in spite of this intense strategy let Brooklyn load the bases without a hit and with none out in the ninth.

The Indians, who had great pitching and timely hitting during their 11-game winning streak, got neither against the New York Yankees as they mired down 7-5 on a rain-soaked diamond.

This victory bounced the Yanks from fourth to second place in one hop and the Boston Red Sox leaped from fifth to third with an 11-inning, 4-3 decision over the Chicago White Sox.

The Detroit Tigers, after a day in second place and minus Hank Greenberg for the first time, were whipped 4-2 by the Washington Senators and slipped to fourth. Sid Hudson smothered the Tigers with six-hit hurling.

The St. Louis Browns captured a marathon 14-inning affair from the Philadelphia Athletics 6-5 with Roy Cullenbine starring He hit a three-run homer in the fifth and singled home the winning run in the 14th.

A homer by Ernie Lombardi was the only run of the game as the Cincinnati Reds squeezed the New York Giants 1-0.

The Chicago Cubs climbed out of the cellar by lambasting the Phillies 11-2. Big Bill Lee not only pitched five-hit ball, but supplied two home runs.

* * *

Jim Tobin also pitched and batted his way to a 7-6 victory for the Boston Braves against the Pittsburgh Pirates. He spread ten hits and singled to open a winning rally in the ninth.

SPORTS GOSSIP

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK — (The Special News Service)—Jack Doyle, the "Wizard of Odds," has shifted from the Reds to the Cards. They're now 6-5 to cop with the Dodgers and Reds even choices for second place. . . . A horse named Noon Hour came in at Churchill Downs the other day and at the very appropriate odds of 12 to 1. . . . Cubs now are talking of getting a good pitcher from the Reds for Hank Leiber. . . . You should have heard General Phelan of the boxing commission roar when one of the promoters along the subway circuit asked for permission to stage Sunday fight shows. . . . Ben Bernie's crew will furnish the music at the Preakness testimonial in honor of Earl Sande at Baltimore tomorrow night.

RECOUP DEPARTMENT.

Some of Porter's Cap's faithful followers straggled in from Derbytown yesterday reporting they got part of their dough back at a big cock fight near Louisville last Sunday. . . . Birds from 11 states were entered and the festivities were attended by more than 300 addicts.

SPORTS TABLOID.

Mike Jacobs has just about made up his mind on July 23 for the Louis-Simon encore. . . . Guessing on the dough involved in the Billy Herman deal ranges from $20,000 to $65,000. (The Associated Press said 50 grand which probably is as near as any.) . . . Jimmy Wilson warned the Dodgers the Cards are plenty tough and accused them of high riding on the base paths "They want to play football—and for keeps," growled Wilson. . . . Frank Leahy is getting up a story for one of the big weeklies . . . Most of the smart guys look for Billy Soose to beat Ken Overlin tomorrow night, but darned if we can see those 5-9 odds against old Ken. He's apt to fool around and outfox that youngster yet.

IT WOULDN'T HURT.

SEEN AND HEARD.

The gossips say Skip Stahley, new Brown football coach, and Jack Kelleher, the baseball head man, are feuding against Ernie Savignano, football captain, passed up spring practice to stick to the baseball team . . . And that "Smoky Joe" Wood, who has had several salary revisions, all of them downward, will take a walk as Yale's baseball coach. . . . After his brilliant debut with the Brooks, Billy Herman repaired to Leone's to eat spaghetti. He was kept so busy shaking hands it required two hours to polish off the meal. . . . Jockey Wendell Eads, who was pulled off Whirlaway in favor of Eddie Arcaro, received a fat check from Owner Warren Wright just the same. . . . TODAY'S GUEST STAR.

Frank Grayson, Cincinnati Times-Star: "Those Philly scribes like to make nasty cracks. . . . One asked another how many riddles there were on the Reds and the reply was, "Twenty-seven."

THERE'S A DIFFERENCE.

Billy Herman's hitting Tuesday reminded Dodger fans of another Herman—the immortal Babe—but thank the lord, his fielding didn't.

Walters Pitches Shutout

Reds Have Chance For One Series Edge.

NEW YORK—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds have a chance today to return to the east triumphant over one of the four teams they've met.

* * *

Bucky Walters pitched his fourth victory and second shutout of the season yesterday to give the Reds a 1-0 victory in the opener of the two game series with the Giants.

Paul Derringer is entrusted with the champ's hopes of doing at the Polo grounds today what they couldn't do at Brooklyn, Boston and Philadelphia. Harry Gumbert, veteran right-hander, is hurling choice for the Terry-ers.

Walters, who clipped a nine-game Dodger winning streak for the Reds' only victory against the other three eastern clubs, gave seven hits in his pitching duel with Hal Schumacher. He fanned two, one of them the last man to face him with a runner on base.

Schumacher gave five hits—but one was Ernie Lombardi's game-winning homer.

"Big Schnoz" spent Sunday benched because of a 125 batting average for 1941 compared to a 10-year greenbook listing of .315. Yesterday his first time up brought a four-bagger that traveled 400 feet into the upper left field stands.

"Prince Hal" had the Reds under control after that.

Bucky gave a walk and a single in the first and second, a pass in the third and a single in the fourth, but the Reds produced a double play in each of these frames.

There was only one outfield put-out on each side.

In the infield Eddie Joost figured in every twin-killing and put his name in baseball history books by handling 19 fielding chances at shortstop to tie an all-time major league record set in 1892.

Soose Eyes Two Titles

Plans Campaigning as Light-Heavy Soon.

NEW YORK—(INS)—Deft Billy Soose is looking forward to the day when he will be fighting for Billy Conn's vacated light heavyweight title. Soose maintains that in fighting Ken Overlin for the middleweight title tomorrow night he will merely be rounding second base on his way to the light heavyweight home plate.

And this is the rather startling statement he has to make with regard to both titles:

"After I have won the middleweight title both from Overlin and Zale I will defend it only two or three times. No more, for the simple reason that I am getting heavier. Inside of a year I will be going after the light heavyweight championship.

"It is no secret that I have been having trouble making the middleweight limit. You'll remember that I came in a pound and a half over for Vigh I'm still growing I'm around six feet tall and have the frame of a light heavyweight I will be better fitted in the 175-pound class.

"When I started to train for the fight with Overlin I weighed 170 pounds I began early so that I could make it gradually, without losing any strength. Ray Arcel put me on a diet, which has brought me up to the battle strong and faster than I've ever been.

"There would be little sense of my trying to remain around 160 pounds when health and stamina would have to be sacrificed I repeat that I'll win Overlin's and Zale's middleweight titles and defend my championship only two ar three times. Then I'll become the light heavyweight champion."

Ken Overlin, 31, has been fighting 12 years. Those who would snatch his crown have not been boxing more than three or four years. Zale, Soose, Hostak, Maurillo, Belloise, Abrams, and the others are mere fledglings compared to Overlin.

* * *

Overlin has had four times the experience of the lot and he considers this his greatest asset He has fought over longer routes, three of his bouts going 15 rounds He has had seven or eight 12-round frays to one for Soose, who failed to make the 160 pound limit the night he fought Ernie Vigh and for which Billy was set down for 30 days. It was a penalty which didn't matter much since Soose needed a month's rest.

Soldiers Decide Hank's Regular

FORT CUSTER, Mich —(AP)— Hank Greenberg starting his first day in the army, had a legion of new friends today.

The former Detroit Tiger outfielder had been in camp less than an hour when word got around the huge government layout that "the big guy is regular."

* * *

The "big guy," drafted from a $50,000 baseball job, was subjected to the usual banter when he stepped down from the special train last night with 70 draftees from Detroit. Hank took it all smiling and handed out a bit of smart repartee that won over those who met him.

* * *

Officials arranged that Greenberg would receive Fort Custer's 15,000th uniform today If given his preference Greenberg said he would choose to remain with the fifth division stationed here It was learned authoritatively that he would probably be assigned to the 11th infantry.

Gil Dodds Claims Fastest Collegiate Mile of Year

By LARRY NEWMAN

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Potpourri gathered along the sports rialto . . .

Gil Dodds, Ashland college's great runner, clipped off the mile in 4:12.7 at the Beloit relays but few realized it was the fastest collegiate mile of the year.

Johnny Miner, probably the greatest basketball player in Ohio State university history, has been awarded the Florence B and Paul W Litchfield award of merit which annually goes to the outstanding athlete of the year at the Akron Goodyear plant . . More than 15 years ago Johnny was greatest showman in the Big Ten . . Quiet, modest and a great example for young people Miner will live forever in Ohio basketball . The coveted Miner trophy goes to Ohio's scholastic basketball champs every year as a tribute to the former Buckeye star

Jim Mahony sports chief of the Lorain Journal, pens that Paul Brown's system at Ohio State already has two fine Lorain high school athletes about sold on the institution for their further education . Paul Biber and Bob Hahn are the boys who are debating between Ohio State and Harry Stuhldreher's Wisconsin institution . . Both are linemen . . (Columbus is a beautiful place in the fall, boys) . . . Especially since Brownie joined the organization

Because of a schedule scramble, the Mutual Broadcasting system will be unable to carry out its plan to broadcast the second half of the Ohio State spring-practice game Saturday . . . The chain will be on the air, however, from 2.15 until 2:30 and Coach Paul Brown will tell his secrets to the thousands who will be watching the game with great interest.

In view of Joe Louis' usual treatment of opponent's in his "second time around," Abe Simon should have insured his entire anatomy and not just his mitts . . . He probably won't use those much anyway during the next fiasco with the Bomber.

The Stark County Sports Writers' annual frolic 'Bibs and Boobs," is scheduled for next Wednesday night at Canton . . . WMBC's Joe Wilson is the production's "arch Obelor. . . "

"Patch and Ball" artists from all over the state will participate in the sixth annual muzzle-loading tournament at Lima Saturday and Sunday. . .

Les Eisenhart, Bob Wright and Bob Johnson, a trio of Ohio State track stars, have been invited to compete in the Los Angeles Coliseum relays May 14 Eisenhart is a miler, Wright a great hurdler, and Johnson, a discus tosser . . .

Mace Brown's sale to the Brooklyn Dodgers by the Pittsburgh club might easily be tabbed the season's first mystery . With little pitching on their side, the Pirates unloaded the right-hander without explanation . .

When Tuscarawas county high school tracksters clash at their annual meet Saturday, they will be firing at a couple of records set four years ago by Ohio University's Frankie Baumholtz . . . Frankie's 5:01.4 in the mile and 2:11.3 in the half have withstood four year's of battering

The Mudhens climbed into a fourth place tie with Columbus yesterday by defeating Milwaukee, 6 to 2.

Kansas City, in a second place tie with Minneapolis and only one game behind pace setting Louisville, tried to advance on both of its rivals, but wound up just where it started. The Blues battled Columbus for 12 innings before rain and darkness forced a halt with the score tied at 3-3

Louisville was idle for the second straight day as rain washed out its game at St Paul Cold weather stopped Indianapolis at Minneapolis.

Double Star

MIKE BYELENE

He doesn't look very familiar without his helmet and pads, but Mike Byelene, Purdue university gridiron star, has proved that he excels in baseball also. Mike took up the diamond sport for the first time in his college career this year, but he turned out to be one of the sparkplugs of the Boilermaker nine, batting at a .300 clip, playing his center field position flawlessly and running the bases daringly.

Hanawalt Takes Medal Honors

Grant Hanawalt shot a sparkling 34 yesterday to capture medal honors as the Westinghouse golf league opened its season at Possum Run.

Close behind him were Al Kushin and Vin Tiple, each with a 36.

BRITAIN OPENS DRIVE AGAINST CARELESS TALK

Campaign Launched To Stem Leakage of Vital Information.

LONDON—(INS)—Britain has begun her second campaign of the war. It is a home front war against the careless talkers.

Much vital information has been leaving Britain's shores daily by the careless talk of the people—quite unintentionally—and the authorities have decided another attempt should be made to stem the leaks.

The task is no menial one, but at the time of writing the first major step has been taken, with the telephone as its victim.

People who chat carelessly over the phone as to where last nights bombs dropped, or where their relations are serving in the armed forces, are interrupted and told politely not to discuss such topics.

The interruption is made by an anonymous voice—and phone gossipers are already taking heed of the warning.

Frequently conversations in French and other languages are broken into by "The Voice," and the callers are requested to talk in English, and if the conversation is found to be at all indiscreet, the call is cancelled.

HYENA FINALLY SHOT.

LADYSMITH, South Africa —(U.P.)— A killer hyena which has ravaged farms near Ladysmith for three years has been shot by a farmer, Mr. S. W. Pienaar of Dorniel. In the past three years it is believed to have killed 50 cattle, 60 donkeys, 200 sheep and two horses, and many goats.

Even our landlord couldn't resist this Spry FULL FLAVOR Cocoa Cream Cake

OUR HOUSE needed painting. The landlord said NO! But the next time he called we were at dinner. "Do sit down and sample my Cocoa Cream Cake," I urged. (Smart little me!)

HE LOVED IT, raved about the grand chocolaty taste. (For Spry doesn't "smother" flavor as ordinary shortenings may.) And when he'd finished his second piece, he up and offered to paint the house!

So tender, delicate, moist—and purer Spry lets you get the FULL rich chocolaty flavor

DON'T risk losing some of the deliciousness of this wonderful cake by making it with ordinary shortenings that may "dull" flavor. Be sure to use Spry, the flavor saver! Spry's purer, stays fresh longer, creams so easily. Three extra advantages and only Spry gives all three. Change to Spry today for all your baking and frying—hear the compliments!

COCOA CREAM CAKE

⅔ cup Spry
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1¼ cups sugar
2 eggs, unbeaten
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon soda
½ cup cocoa
2 cups sifted flour
1 cup sour cream

Blend Spry, salt and vanilla. Add sugar gradually and cream well. (Isn't it easy with triple-creamed Spry?) Add eggs, singly, beating well after each addition. Sift baking powder, soda and cocoa with flour 3 times. Add flour to creamed mixture, alternately with sour cream, mixing after each addition until smooth.

Bake in two 8-inch Spry-coated layer pans in moderate oven (350° F.) 30 to 35 minutes. Spread Cocoa Cream Frosting between layers and on top and sides of cake.

COCOA CREAM FROSTING

2 tablespoons Spry
1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup cocoa
2½ cups sifted confectioners' sugar
6 tablespoons scalded cream (about)

Blend Spry, butter, vanilla and salt. Sift cocoa with confectioners' sugar. Beat in ½ cup sugar-cocoa mixture. Add hot cream, alternately with remaining sugar mixture, beating well after each addition. Add only enough cream to make a nice spreading consistency. A marvelous frosting, so luscious, chocolaty, so smooth and creamy! But always use Spry to be sure of best results. (All measurements in these recipes are level)

YOUR BABY can have THE BEST MILK

● Your baby deserves the best milk. You can't get better milk for babies and children than Wilson's.

It's whole milk with the cream left in—minus water evaporated away. Wilson's has more Vitamin D than plain milk because it is irradiated with ultra-violet "sunshine" rays, to help build strong bones and sound teeth. Wilson's is homogenized—digests quickly. It's always safe, always uniform. Many hospitals and doctors use Wilson's for baby feeding.
